ALLIES TAKE BAYEUX AND STRIKE SOUTH; AIR TROOPS STILL POUR IN

BIG SKY FLEETS COVER INVASION AREA IN FRANCE

750 to 1,000 U. S. Bombers Clamp Air Seal on Normandy.

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 8 — A powerful force of 750 to 1,000 American heavy bombers swept a wide arc of south Normandy early today, smashing bridges, airdromes and railroad yards and junctions in a vigorous effort to clamp an air seal on the beachhead battlefield.

While Fortresses and Liberators, in the biggest aerial operation of the third day of the invasion, hit hard at installations from 100 to 150 miles behind the front, Marauders began the day of battle with a dawn attack on Caen.

The twin-engined mediums left the city on the main railway between Cherbourg to Paris burning with at least 20 fires from an attack at 4,500 feet.

These blows followed RAF strikes last night in which a series of rail targets near Paris and German transport 12 miles behind the invasion coast were riddled with heavy cargoes of bombs.

Allied planes of all descriptions had flown 22,000 sorties in the last 48 hours and air operations were mounting today as weather improved.

Stop Only To Refuel

Tunderbolt and Lightning fighter-bombers since 6 p. m. yesterday flew so continuously they stopped only to refuel and rearm between flights, setting out on new missions without waiting to repair bullet holes in their wings.

Among the fighter-bomber targets hit were 15 bridges and a chateau used as a German headquarters.

More than 2,000 of the 9,000 sorties flown by the Allies in the 24 hours ending at midnight were made by these fighter-bombers which shot down six enemy aircraft and lost 21 of their own number.

A total of 144 German planes had been knocked down in the last 48 hours, and 20 others destroyed on the ground. The last tabulation showed the Allies had lost 119 aircraft, but supreme headquarters was not attempting to keep an up-to-the-minute tabulation and was leaving the announcements of losses to the individual commands.

Nazi night fighters stalked the British formations and scored their biggest kill of the invasion,

ALLIES TAKE PORT OF ROME

City 38 Miles Northwest of Capital Falls to Advancing Fifth Army.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 8 — The Fifth army has captured Civitavecchia Rome's principal port, 38 miles northwest of the capital, and today was thrusting swiftly up the west coast to maintain contact with the retreating enemy.

Other Fifth army units, speeding in a more northerly direction, captured the town of Bracciano, 20 miles north of Rome, on the west shore of the large lake of the same name. Still another column last was reported passing the lake on the east side, 15 miles north of Rome.

An official spokesman declared "the battered remnants of the German 14th army are in a considerable state of disorganization. Upwards of 40 Wehrmacht formations are represented in the collection of prisoners taken in the exodus from Rome and beyond. Apparently even battalions are attaching themselves to whatever higher echelon is available."

Allied forces driving due north of Rome captured Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's former headquarters, about three miles southeast of Civita Castellana.

Stronghold Under Guard

The headquarters, described as an "elaborate tunnelled underground stronghold," was put under a strong guard.

The drive on Civita Castellana, about 25 miles northeast of Rome made rapid progress up highway three and an official report that reconnaissance elements encountered some opposition west of the town indicated it might be bypassed first.

The Eighth army punched into the Tiber valley above Rome and forged northward along the east banks of the river.

Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's men captured the important town of Monterotondo, 12 miles northeast of Rome, and the nearby towns of Sant'Angelo, Romano, Guidonia, and Mentana. Guidonia is valuable because it has an air field.

Farther to the east the Eighth army captured Subiaco, about eight miles south of the main highway running across the Italian peninsula from Rome to

Eisenhower Crosses Channel, Helps in Rescue of Soldiers

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, JUNE 8—General Eisenhower and Adm. Sir Bertram Ramsey, commander of allied naval forces, interrupted a four-and-a-half-hour cruise off the French invasion beaches yesterday long enough to direct aid to a handful of unknown, drifting soldiers, it was learned today.

On the way to their ship-board conference with operational commanders, Eisenhower and Ramsay were informed that a landing barge had been sighted lurching helplessly at one side of the convoy.

The men aboard signaled they needed help. A returning landing craft was passed only a mile or so nearer France and was given the location of the drifting barge.

Eisenhower's and Ramsay's conclave with high officers, including Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the invasion ground forces, and Rear Adm. Alan Goodrich Kirk, commander of the U. S. naval task forces in the invasion operation, was held in the midst of an armada of thousands of ships.

The supreme commander left on English coastal town to attend the meeting only 24 hours after the early landing operations. At one point the conference was carried on within five miles of the enemy because Eisenhower felt he thereby could get better communications.

As Montgomery bobbed away from the side of the ship in his launch at the end of the session Eisenhower grinned, stuck up his thumb and called after him:

"Good luck to you."

Eisenhower also had an historic conference Sunday night with Prime Minister Churchill, Gen. Charles De Gaulle, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts of the union of South Africa. He subsequently reported complete agreement was reached on military matters with the French.

BIG RUSSIAN ATTACK REPORTED IN BERLIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 8—DNB in a Berlin broadcast today announced that the Russians had launched an offensive on a broad front in the sector north of Iasi, Romania.

A broadcast Romanian communique said "heavy fighting is in progress."

There was no confirmation immediately from Moscow, but a new offensive on the Russian front has been expected to put new pressure on Germany's east while American and British forces are attacking in France and Italy.

Last night's Moscow communique said German attacks north of Iasi have "diminished considerably," indicating the Germans may have been stopped in a push which they announced earlier.

Red troops counter-attacking in the Moldavian province succeeded in capturing two heights from the Nazis, a broadcast communique said.

From May 30 to June 6 the Germans lost more than 10,000 dead in the savage fighting near Iasi, and suffered heavily through destruction of equipment, Moscow asserted.

Former Findlay Man Lands First Glider in France

LT. COL. MURPHY

By The Associated Press

FINDLAY, O., June 8—Lt. Col. Mike Murphy, the Ohioan who led the American glider invasion of France, first won fame as one of the nation's top aerial acrobats.

The man who landed the first glider in France on D-day operated the airport here before entering the army and was a three-time winner on the Freddie Lund acrobatic trophy at the All-American air shows in Miami, Fla.

The stunt for which the 37-year-old flier was best known was landing an airplane on top of a moving automobile.

He came here in 1937 after five years at the Kokomo, Ind., airport.

Fifteen years earlier in his native Lafayette, Ind., he learned stunt flying from Capt. L. I. Aretz.

The job in Kokomo put an end, temporarily, to stunt flying. But when Murphy came to Findlay, it cropped out again. One afternoon he took his ship high above the clouds, cut the motors dead and came sailing down with the plane dangling on the ropes of a parachute.

SOLDIER FROM MARION KILLED

Pfc. Robert Merchant Dies in Italy May 23; In Engineer Unit.

Pfc. Robert G. Merchant, 23, was killed in action in Italy on May 23, according to word received from the War Department by his father. A telegram, signed by Adjutant General Ulio, stated that a letter giving details would follow.

Pfc. Merchant is the son of Samuel M. Merchant of 130 West Washington street and Mrs. Alida Merchant of 788 Davids street. He is also survived by his wife, the former Miss Betty Friley, whose present address is unknown, a sister, Miss Betty Joanne Merchant of the Davids street address and a brother, Euler E. Merchant, serving with the Merchant Marine.

Entering the service Aug. 27, 1942, Pfc. Merchant has served overseas since January, 1943. He took part in the invasion of Sicily with the 7th Army. After the Battle of Salerno he was transferred to the 5th Army with which he was serving in the 39th Combat Engineers at the time he was killed. In the First World war, his father was in the 59th Division of the Combat Engineers.

The last word from the boy was a letter received on April 8 by his father.

Prior to his joining the service, Pfc. Merchant worked at the Marion Metal Products Co. He also was employed at one time by the Western Union Telegraph Co.

GERMANS REPORT TREND OF ATTACK

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 8—The German high command said today that the Allies had launched an attack to the southwest—in a direction that would cut off Cherbourg—from their bridgehead between Bayeux and Caen and that heavy fighting was in progress with the Germans throwing reserves into counterattacks.

The communique declared the German counterattacks on the flanks of the beachhead were making progress, however.

It said the Allies had been compressed into a narrow space east of the Orne on the eastern flank, and "pushed away from the coast."

To the west, Americans who had gained a foothold north of Carentan slightly over 20 miles south of Cherbourg, were declared to have suffered "heavy casualties."

The Allies were trying to reinforce their bridgeheads but had attempted to establish no new ones except at the bay of St. Martin at the northwestern tip of the peninsula, the communique said. This latter attempt was declared to have been turned back by coastal batteries.

Reporter Finds Atlantic Wall Is Grand Bluff

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
Representing the Combined Allied Press. Distributed by The Associated Press

WITH THE ALLIED INVADING FORCES IN FRANCE, June 8 — The so-called Atlantic wall along this coast constitutes the biggest bluff of the whole war for it simply does not exist. Some prisoners said the Germans frantically had been trying to complete defenses but the task had been too vast for them.

Although we have pushed far inland without encountering serious opposition, it must not be imagined the German will not react as soon as they have grouped their panzer forces.

They tried to hold us in the region of Caen and Bayeux but our tanks were in greater force. We have thrown into battle British and American tanks and self-propelled guns.

Some of these actions have been responsible for demoralizing the enemy. All of the French people with whom I talked spoke of the Nazi loss of courage. They may not be beaten but they are near to it.

Prisoners also said the defeats in Russia and Italy are known to the rank and file and they realize it is all up with their cause.

Tours Front Line

I have just completed a tour of the front line covering nearly 30 miles. We have captured towns and villages and the whole countryside is beflagged with Union Jacks, Stars and Stripes and the French tricolor.

Bayeux inhabitants were crazy with joy. A squadron of our medium bombers flew over low.

"That is what frightened the Germans most," the French folk said. They scurried underground like rabbits whenever your fliers came over. During the last few days before the invasion, your air attacks were terrific. We could read fear on the faces of the Germans."

Jumps with Air Troops To Get Invasion Story

By LEONARD MOSLEY
Representing the Combined British Press. Distributed by The Associated Press

BEHIND THE ATLANTIC WALL, June 8 — (Delayed) — I parachuted into Europe at 1 a. m. today, a half hour after the first paratroopers had landed and six and one-half hours before our seaborne forces had stormed the beaches.

The group which went in ahead of the unit with which I jumped was under orders to capture vital bridges before they could be blown up by the Nazis. It was our job to bring them aid and infest the whole area for 100 square miles around to prevent the Nazis from counterattacking.

"Hook up your chutes," was the signal from the pilot. It was five minutes to one when the light snapped off and a hole in the plane was opened. Under it we could see the coast of France below—and a garish sight it was. For flak from the coast defenses was spouting flame everywhere.

In great globes of red and purple it burst all around our plane as we coasted down to the dropping zone. Then we are all madly shuffling down the hole and jumping into space.

As I twisted down I looked for a church I had been told to spy for a landmark. But I came down in an orchard outside a farmhouse and I knew I was hopelessly lost.

Gunfire Nearby

I crawled forward through trees. Suddenly there was a rip and tear in my jumping frock and I flung myself to the ground. Machine guns rattled and there were the smashing explosions of hand grenades. I began to run at a crouch. Suddenly there were two more figures coming for me, carrying guns. There was a crash of sten-gunfire and both men crumpled up not 15 yards from me.

Into the farm field stealthily came five men to challenge me. And I was with our own paratroopers again.

We made our rendezvous at 3 a. m. after two long weary hours of wandering about the Nazi-infested country. I made my way to the bridges. Here the battle had ceased and both the river and canal spans were in our hands and firmly held by paratroop machine gunners.

CHERBOURG RAIL LINE SEVERED IN SPEEDY ADVANCE

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 8—Allied invasion troops constantly reinforced by air and sea struck south of fallen Bayeux in fierce fighting today, striving to chop off the Cherbourg peninsula, and Berlin reported a pincers threat to seize the tip of the jutting coast and its strategic port of Cherbourg.

Capture of Bayeux snipped the railway between Paris and Cherbourg, 45 miles to the northwest, and opened the way for a thrust deeper inland.

But farther west the Germans pictured allied forces already within 20 miles of a junction that would choke off Cherbourg itself. Berlin declared house-to-house fighting raged in Ste. Mere-Eglise, 20 miles southeast of the port, and said parachutists had landed on the west coast only a score of miles southwest of Ste. Mere-Eglise.

Landings Not Confirmed

There was no allied confirmation of west coast landings or fighting at Ste. Mere-Eglise, on one of the two main roads to Cherbourg.

Heavy battles, with tanks and reserves sped up by both sides, flared over the peninsula. Allied beachhead troops are linking up with airborne forces dropped deeper inland, headquarters said, and improvement in adverse weather aided reinforcements from glider sky trains.

Field reports declared British-Canadian troops had captured a number of French towns and villages, advancing on open roads to points some miles from the coast. Infantrymen rode up to battle on bicycles and tanks to speed the advance.

A Berlin broadcast said British troops pushed through Bayeux early today and are advancing southwest toward the Vire river, which cuts across the peninsula.

Eisenhower Is Confident

On the third day of the invasion, Supreme Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared:

"My complete confidence in the ability of the allied armies, navies and air forces to do all they are asked to do has been completely justified."

Even as he spoke, Berlin radio reported the Russians had launched an offensive north of Iasi in Romania—perhaps the beginning of a coordinated nutcracker blow from the east.

Eisenhower declared the ground troops are "performing magnificently," praised the naval landing operations as surpassing any other amphibious operation he has seen, and lauded the "long and brilliant" aerial campaign that proved such effective preparation for landings.

Powerful air armadas scourged German defenses today, with 750 to 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators mauling bridges, railroad targets and airfields in an arc 100 to 150 miles south of the beachheads, and U. S. Marauders starting fires in Caen, southeast of Bayeux, toward which a beachhead force is driving.

Prisoners Taken

Canadian and British troops have captured several hundred prisoners and shot up numerous Nazi 88-millimeter guns, field reports said. Canadian Press Correspondent Ross Munro, with Canadians in an unidentified sector, said the Germans were reported falling back in one area under persistent attacks, and "strength is being built up rapidly in the allied bridgeheads for the big battles which should come any day, or even any hour."

The German high command declared the allies had opened an attack fro mthe bridgehead between Caen and Bayeux, and that Nazi forces counterattacked. Heavy fighting continues, it added.

Berlin said Americans who gained a foothold north of Carentan, some 27 miles southeast of Cherbourg, had suffered heavy casualties. It also claimed successes near the Orne river mouth, above Caen.

A landing attempt in the bay of St. Martin at the northwest tip of the peninsula, near CAP DE LA Hague, was frustrated, the enemy high command said.

Engineers Join Battle

Engineers troops joined the flood of allied reinforcements, helping in tearing down Atlantic wall defenses, and a U. S. Ninth air force troop carrier report of flying in jeeps and guns disclosed the allies had captured or built at least one airfield on the peninsula.

"Everything is going excellently," said Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, ground forces commander.

It now is apparent the allies have several beachheads on a 50-mile coastal stretch between Caen and Carentan with some of them joined together.

Headquarters was silent on Berlin reports that parachutists in a deep, daring thrust had landed at Falaise and Argentan, 30 miles southeast of Caen, with street fighting flaring in Falaise. The Germans said eight to 13 allied divisions were fighting on the peninsula.

Thundering naval support of the drive continued, and allied airmen destroyed 102 Nazi planes yesterday.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower used his airborne troops to the fullest, and an observer on a ship in the channel said at one time "the sky overhead became unbelievably crowded with aircraft. Four lanes of tow-plane traffic going each way spanned the channel."

The Germans likewise rushed in new strength, and Prime Minister Churchill warned against over-optimism, declaring "enormous exertions lie before us."

Some of the troops have been fighting continuously since Tuesday morning and it is likely there may be a short lull in advances

260 BILLION DEBT LIMIT BILL PASSED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 8—Legislation boosting the nation's debt limit from $210,000,000,000 to $260,000,000,000, and at the same time reducing the cabaret tax from 30 to 20 per cent, was approved finally by congress yesterday and sent to the White House.

The measure clears a legal path for the opening June 12 of the $16,000,000,000 Fifth war loan.

The night club tax was tacked on the debt action bill by the senate, but another senate provision—exempting service men and women from payment of the levy—was erased.

The legislation went to the White House, as the house approved, 172 to 54, an agreement reached by a senate-house conference committee. The senate adopted the agreement yesterday.

The nation's debt now is approximately $187,000,000,000. It was $40,000,000,000 when America began defense measures in 1940.

Total export of onion seed from the Canary Islands to the United States increased 59 per cent in volume and 152 per cent in value in 1943 over 1942 exports.

Mrs. Reuben Kocher Rites in Bucyrus Tomorrow

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 8—Funeral will be conducted Friday at 2:30 in Epworth Methodist church for Mrs. Reuben L. Kocher, 61, who died at City hospital Tuesday. Burial will be made in Oakwood cemetery. A family service at the family home southeast of Bucyrus will be held at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Kocher was born in Monroe county, Jan. 13, 1883. Her marriage to Reuben Kocher took place in 1905. Survivor are two children, Mable E. at home and Mrs. E. O. Beam of Bucyrus; one sister, Mrs. Della Shumaker of Ravenna and three brothers, A. F. Walter of Powhatan, E. W. Walter of Shadyside and C. W. Walter of Kent.

Bucyrus Horse in "Marion" Film To Be Shown June 14

Marion moviegoers will be among the first to see "Home In Indiana" when the world premiere of the picture is held at the Ohio theater next Wednesday, June 14. The filly, shown above being driven by Lon McAllister, is Miss Sarah Abbey, a 3-year-old trotter owned by Walter J. Michael, industrialist and race enthusiast of Bucyrus. The horse plays the leading equine role, "Maudeen Four", who goes blind in her moment of triumph as she wins a championship purse.

The movie company was on location in Marion last year while many of the racing scenes were filmed and numerous local residents were hired as extras for the grandstand spectators.

The 20th Century-Fox production is based on George Agnew Chamberlain's novel, "The Phantom Filly" recording the thrills surrounding Grand Circuit racing.

The cast is headed by Walter Brennan, Lon McAllister, Charlotte Greenwood, Jeanne Crain and June Haver.

In addition to the number of Marionites who were cast in the picture as extras, the races which form the climax of "Home In Indiana" were arranged with the assistance of Frank Foster of the Houghton Sulky Company, principal builder of sulkies in the world today.

CITY HOSPITAL STAFF FORMED

Regulations Studied by Doctors; Called Step Toward Hospital Recognition.

Formation of a staff, at Marion City hospital was made public today following a meeting of the Marion County Academy of Medicine Tuesday night at which plans for rules and regulations for the staff were discussed. Charter members of the staff are members of the academy.

The formation of the staff has been called a definite step forward for the City hospital which has never been accredited by the American College of Surgeons, largely because of the lack of a staff.

Formation of a regular staff to attend to administration of the hospital so far as medical needs of patients are concerned is one of the first steps toward the goal of recognition. It will probably be a matter of five years before efforts of the staff bear fruit in actual recognition of the hospital, physicians said.

Another meeting will be held the first Tuesday of next month when further plans for organization will be studied. Complete [illegible] relative to the staff will not be made immediately. The business administration and further operation of the hospital will remain in the hands of the city.

Dr. John A. McNamara, president, is automatically [illegible] of staff by virtue of his office in the academy.

After the meeting members of the Women's Board of City Hospital served a light supper.

FARM BUREAU PLANS RURAL HEALTH GROUP

Committee To Study County Health Problems.

Plans for the organization of a countywide health committee were authorized by the Farm Bureau board of directors at a meeting Monday night. The purpose will be to study problems of rural health, present these to local groups in the hope of finding a solution to the health situation. Statistics show that the percentage of farm boys who are rejected from military service is considerably higher than other rejections.

In Marion county, approximately 30 members of various organizations will comprise the health committee. One representative will be chosen from each of the following groups, Farm Bureau board, Farm Bureau Cooperative board, farm insurance group, and one from each advisory council and each youth council in Marion county. Mrs. Howard Lusch of Claridon township will represent the Farm Bureau board.

Miss Betty Lou Parker of LaRue reported on the youth meeting held recently in Columbus, telling of the need for youth councils in the county. It was decided that youth councils would be organized and tentative arrangements have been started for groups to be located in Richland, Bowling Green and Big Island townships. Young, unmarried people, between the ages of 14 and 24 years will be included in the councils. Meetings will be held at the various homes and plans have been announced for a recreation party to be held once a month.

County Committee Gives Suggestions To Home Canners

With the approach of the canning season, Marion county housewives may find helpful suggestions in canning hints offered by the Marion County Food Preservation committee.

One thing that prospective home canners can do right away in preparation for a busy season is have their pressure canners checked and ready for duty when the time comes. Several things may need checking before the canner is put into use on the first day of canning.

Five simple checkup steps have been enumerated by the council.

They are: (1) Unscrew the safety valve and petcock and make sure that openings in the lid of the canner are clean by putting the end of a match through the openings; (2) be sure that any part of the petcock or safety-valve that touches the lid of the canner is clean. Soap and water will do the trick. Abrasive cleaners will scratch the surface of the cooker; (3) Put a drop or two of oil on each lug, being careful not to let oil touch the rubber ring of the lid if your canner happens to be the type on which rubber is used; (4) If your canner has been stored with the lid fastened down, cook a cup of raw potato peelings in it for 15 minutes at 10 pounds pressure; (5) Have canner gauges tested once a year.

The committee owns a pressure canner gauge tester and someone will be on hand every Saturday morning at the County Agricultural Extension office in the post-office building. By calling Miss Cook at the Agricultural Extension office appointments may be made to bring canners for testing on other days. If there are enough people in a community to merit a trip there the tester will be taken to a center elsewhere in the community. Canner owners need only bring the canner lid, but if only part of the apparatus is brought the gauge should be kept in place in the lid.

Kimmel, Short Extension Set

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 8. — A ... conference committee ... yesterday on a ... extension—until Dec. ... the time in which court martial proceedings might be instituted against Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short as a result of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe.

The present extension expires at midnight tonight. Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) of the house judiciary committee said action on the compromise would be sought in the house immediately. The senate must wait until the house acts before it can accept the compromise.

Following closely the provisions already approved by the senate, the compromise directs the two cabinet officers to make investigations within six months and to take such action as the facts justify.

Scrap Lumber To Be Sold at Engineer Depot

The salvage department of the Marion Engineer Depot announced today that bids would be accepted on the following items which are unserviceable for Army use: ... loads of kindling and scrap lumber (11½ tons to the load), one 500-gallon wooden water storage tank and 200 nail kegs.

The sale has been authorized by the government and sealed bids in quadruplicate will be received at the depot office until 10 a. m. June 12. Bidders are invited to inspect property before submitting bids. Bids must be signed by the bidder and a certified check or postal money order for at least 20 per cent of the total sum of the bid as a guarantee must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, postage prepaid and addressed to the depot office marked "Bids for Sale of Waste Material." Thirty days must be allowed from the date specified for the bid to be accepted by the government.

NORMANDY, WHERE ALLIES ESTABLISH BEACHHEADS. A panoramic view of the French Normandy coastline where the invading Allies established their first beachheads is shown above. Driving nearly 10 miles into the vaunted German West Wall, the Allies reached Caen (1), a vital link in the Cherbourg peninsula. Main beachheads, reports said, were established at points along the coast (2) indicated by blackened areas. Paratroop landings at Rouen (3) and others near Havre and Honfleur (4) were reported by German sources. Other German dispatches told of Allied efforts to isolate both Havre and Cherbourg with pincer movements (5); also of Allied paratroop landings on the islands of Guernsey (A) and Jersey (B).

SCHOOL ATHLETIC DIRECTOR STRICKEN

H. R. Townsend Was First Head of State Association.

COLUMBUS, O., June 8 — Horace R. Townsend, 60, commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic association, died unexpectedly yesterday of a heart attack.

Townsend was stricken as he and members of his family were enroute from Columbus to their farm in Clinton county.

Known to high school students as the man who governed their athletics and to thousands of athletes as the motivating power behind the progressive program of the association, Townsend had served the schools of the state for 20 years.

He was the first and only man appointed to the commissioner post, his selection coming while he was superintendent of the Hamilton, O., schools in 1925—just two years after the State High School Athletic association was organized.

The association's board of control scheduled an emergency meeting here late today and belief was expressed it might name a temporary commissioner.

Townsend was a native of Clinton county. He attended Wilmington college and was graduated from Harvard university. He taught in many Ohio schools.

During his service as commissioner Townsend saw the O. H. S. A. A. grow from an organization of a few schools to a statewide membership of 1,200. He saw the Ohio basketball tournaments—once largely invitational affairs—expand to include the entire state.

He founded the state high school spring sports carnival which includes track, baseball, golf and tennis meets.

Early in the spring Townsend was confined to his home with an attack of influenza, and friends asserted they did not believe he ever entirely recovered his strength.

Yesterday morning in his office he complained of not feeling well, and had coughed heavily during the day, associates said.

Townsend is survived by his widow; two sons, Horace Jr., who is serving with the armed forces overseas, and Richard; two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Pyson of Sandusky and Mrs. Gene Rader, at home.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. in Martinsville, Clinton county, with burial there.

NEW YORK, June 8—Recordings done on ship, in planes or even on the French peninsula, then taken to London for short-wave relay, are making it possible for the networks to provide more "eye-witness" broadcasts of this invasion than was possible in the Mediterranean area landings.

Eddie Cantor told listeners on NBC last night that the winner of his quest for a typical "G. I. Joe," as well as a $5,000 fund for post-war use, is Charles William Peers of Louisville, Ky. Peers is overseas in the European area.

BUCYRUS ATHLETIC COACH APPOINTED

BUCYRUS, June 8—Joe Riccardi, former Ohio university athlete and coach at Urichsville High school last year, has been named successor to Ensign Nick Wasylik as head football and basketball coach of Bucyrus High school. It was announced this week by the school's athletic department.

Riccardi, a native of Sandusky, holds an honorable discharge from the Army. Prior to receiving the Bucyrus appointment, he had applied for coaching positions at Mt. Vernon and Ashland High schools.

Wasylik, who coached the Bucyrus grid and cage teams since 1940, was commissioned an ensign in the Navy last December. Charles Tschanen, junior high school instructor and coach, was named temporary basketball mentor after Wasylik left. Tschanen is a former Marion High school athlete.

CALL FOR CLEAN HEARTS

The Star: When news ... come it found ... ians, including me, ... ation of prayer—pre- ... prayer.

... Lord and Saviour ... be clean vessels to ... I have searched ... sure I am in a po- ... for our boys.

... that we all search our ... if our hearts are ... hatred, and jeal- ... carnality there may ...

Let's search our hearts and be clean vessels.

MARY E. THOMAS.
474 Avondale avenue.

SURPRISED AT CRITICISMS

Editor of The Star: I am surely surprised at the people who have been criticizing the Liquor Association Memorial of May 29. How narrow minded they have shown themselves.

Perhaps they would do well to read their Bibles and review the Golden Rule and the story of the woman being stoned and Jesus coming to her aid and telling her tormentors, "Let he who hath not sinned be the first to throw stones.

No person is so bad there is no good in him. I knew one of the gentlemen in the Liquor association and he is one of the kindest persons in the city to work for.

An excess of anything is not good for a person, yet there are hundreds who eat candy, pop and other items but no one refuses to sell it to them either.

Perhaps next year my own husband's name may be among the honored heroes of Ohio and I pray God I will never be so utterly narrow minded as some have been. How ashamed those dear ones would be of them, I'm sure.

I myself neither drink nor smoke so it isn't my reason for defending that Memorial but simply that those men who gave it were only being human and decent.

MRS. J. L. LEHNER.
180 Tully street.

ANSWER TO CO-READERS

Editor of The Star: I have in the past been content to read my paper and keep my ideas to myself but the disgust and shame I felt for my co-readers must be expressed.

I am not a drinker and have no connection with any of these liquor dealers. In one of these letters sent to The Star they referred to the fact our forefathers, the Pilgrims, came to America to make for us a better world. That is true, but I believe if he had read a little further he would have found that they were all coming for the same reasons, "to worship free" and be considered equal.

I had a loved one in that list too. In looking at his name, tears filled my eyes. I did not hastily glance down to see who had put his name in—it was important to me that his name was in. Some of us are making for ourselves a smug little world and we refuse to see any side but our own.

I know none of these men who sponsored this ad, but without a doubt they, too, have sons, perhaps their sons were on the list.

Our boys our fighting together. Do you think they would be proud of their dads fighting among one another?

I wonder what Abraham Lincoln would think of this situation.

MISS BETTY SCHNECK.
674 Sugar street.

FROM "MIDDLE COURSE"

Editor of The Star: The purpose of this letter is not to defend the sale or use of intoxicating beverages, or even the character of those who deal in it. It is, however, to defend the right of anyone, no matter what his business or occupation, to pay homage to those who made the supreme sacrifice for their nation's welfare.

It appeared to me to be a very decent gesture on the part of the Liquor Dealers' association to buy space in a newspaper in order to list the names of those of our community who died in action. And who under the sun would deny any business man, no matter what his business, the privilege of signing his name or the name of his business establishment at the bottom of such an ad, as sponsor of same.

Is it not significant, perhaps a little ironic, that no other business man in our city saw fit to publish an ad of this nature?

To one who pursues a middle course: who views the evils of alcohol and vice on one hand and religious intolerance on the other, both appear equally repulsive.

BILL WALKINS,
482 West Center street.

Commission Received by Harold C. Osmun

Harold D. Osmun, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Osmun of 209 Elm street, has received his commission of second lieutenant after completing the course at Miami Beach, Fla., on May 27. He entered the Officer's Candidate School Feb. 6 of this year as a sergeant from Stout Field in Indianapolis, Ind. Following his graduation he was sent to Mitchell Field, N. Y., and from there to Langley Field at Hampton, Va.

Before going to Langley Field he was given a five-day delay enroute, which he spent with his parents. His wife, Mrs. Lucille Osmun, whose home is in Detroit, attended the graduation exercises and has accompanied him to Virginia. Lt. Osmun has been in the Army Air Corps since he enlisted in Detroit, Sept. 5, 1942. He is now in the administrative department.

He graduated from Harding High school in 1940 where he was a member of the football team for three years. He was employed at the F. W. Woolworth Co., and was the assistant manager here when tranferred to Detroit. Just prior to his enlistment, Lt. Osmun was employed in the First National Bank of Detroit.

Retired Marion Man Turns Scraps into Quilt Covers

Edgar H. Cowan of 485 South Main street may have retired from the machinist's trade but he doesn't believe in being idle. He may be 80 but that doesn't prevent him from picking up a new hobby.

Mr. Cowan lives with his daughter, Mrs. Grace Wish, whose profession is making draperies and slip covers for chairs. She saved the scraps of material and had quite a collection.

Last November, Mr. Cowan learned how to use her sewing machine and started in on the scraps. To date he has made eight pieced covers for quilts and two afghans. Each of the quilt covers has consisted of about 560 pieces. His only expense has been for two strips of border material costing 89 cents and $1.35. He has given the quilt covers to his daughters and his sons' wives. Now his daughter will have to work fast, Mr. Cowan has used up all the scraps and is waiting for more.

One and One Make War Production

THE toughest war production problem at the moment is manpower not be sure of a gross shortage, but because of regional shortage. In the months immediately ahead, as some lines of war production are cut back or canceled entirely, the difficulty of keeping other lines supplied will become acute, not because aggravated by the entirely natural impulse of many workers to land on their feet for the peacetime years ahead.

It was this prospect which prompted some government officials to advocate a national service act. In lieu of that move, which found no favor in congress, the war manpower commission has formulated sweeping new controls over manpower allocation based on operation of United States employment service. The success of these controls, which are to be maintained on a voluntary basis backed by the fact they offer the likeliest means of job placement for both employes and employers, will be determined largely by the self-discipline of the persons affected.

Their self-discipline, in turn, will be conditioned by the amount of faith they hold in plans to bring about an orderly transition from all-out war production to the more rational production now being made possible by Allied success in the war. Workers must be shown that they are combining self-interest and patriotic duty by doing the jobs that need to be done most. They must not be alarmed by such incidents as that which recently threatened to throw thousands of aviation industry workers out of work in one eastern factory. They must be convinced that they are not jeopardizing their job security by staying where they are needed. The solution of the problem can be eased by a sense of orderly administration.

War production is still what it has been from the beginning, as far as manpower is concerned —a matter of matching jobs and workers. All that has changed is the passing of the phase in which every element of production was in continuous expansion; some of the elements now are being tapered off. While jobs are still seeking workers, some workers are seeking jobs. The new manpower controls aim to bring them together and keep them together.

Selecting a Name

ANOTHER flurry of interest in a fitting name for the war has been started by President Roosevelt's reported liking for "Tyrants war." The President once thought "War for Survival" would be a good name, too.

The ultimate name, however, already has been designated by circumstances. This war is a continuation of the massive struggle begun in 1914—Part II of a World war. Since the connection between wars may be taken for granted, the title thus becomes World war II, with the parenthetical reservation that it will be followed by World war III and so on, unless something is done about it.

The propriety of the title lies, of course, in the recognition it gives the most momentous fact about war in modern times. There can be no more local wars; there haven't been any, in fact, for longer than usually is admitted. In our own history, even the Civil war became world war in some of its international aspects. But now, belatedly, it is realized instinctively that henceforth all wars are going to be world-wide and connected in a series.

We have had World war I. We are having World war II. World war III is no more remote than the possibility that World war II may be ended in such a manner that it will lead only to an uneasy armistice before the circumstances for World war III have been created.

Rome Is Hungry

MOST fitting response in the United States to the presence of Allied troops in Rome is an extra half-hour in the Victory Garden. Rome is hungry. Its population needs food. It needs everything else, too.

The Italian campaign so far has brought abundant evidence of what poverty does to a great people, not only the poverty induced by the German policy of looting foreign countries for the glory of the reich, but the poverty native to Italy. It is the poverty, the misery and the degradation that impress United States fighting men most; they are shocked by the prevalence of a condition which leaves most of them bewildered. There are 43,000,000 persons in Italy; the total in the area occupied by the Allies is perhaps 20,000,000. Almost without exception, they are in need of food and clothing. And almost without exception, they are looking to the Allies—and particularly to the United States—for relief.

Relief will be given, to the best of our ability. But with the occupation of the first capital city in the wake of the retreating German army, it will be plainer than it has been before that the best of our ability cannot make much impression on people who have needed so much for so long. America only can give enough to tide them over until they have learned again to help themselves. If the Allies can give the population of Rome enough to last three weeks, until its food distribution system can be established after a fashion, that will be a triumph of relief. Beyond Rome stand all the millions of other Europeans—all waiting to be fed, all a grim tribute to the waste of war.

Real Fight in France Expected When German Forces Counterattack.

But the German [illegible] this show and [illegible] before getting their [illegible] into the fray. The [illegible] been held for [illegible] the coast at strategic road junctions to meet the real battle in any direction presented. It was three days after our easy landing at Salerno that we ran into real opposition in an armored [illegible]

There can be no doubt that we [illegible] a certain amount of tactical surprise. Their radio did not broadcast the news of the invasion until 12:30 a. m., EWT., after our airborne troops actually had landed. If the Germans had not been deceived, they would have spread the alarm the moment our ships left England to journey three or more hours across the channel.

Furthermore, their radio had broadcast only two days earlier that no invasion should be expected for a month. Up to that time, they had been expecting the blow every day.

Their generals seem to have decided that our daily threats were fakes designed to keep them from reinforcing their troops in Italy. The false Associated Press advance report of invasion seems only to have confused them although you would think it would have served as a warning.

Highly Advertised

That we were coming, however, was no surprise to anyone. Indeed, this was the most highly [illegible] publicized invasion of [illegible] history, and [illegible] exception only to the [illegible] broadcasting Axis [illegible] has [illegible] reported of [illegible] by [illegible], whose communiques [illegible] terse and [illegible]

The nature of the fighting and the form the battle will take [illegible], and depend largely on the German counterattacks and General Eisenhower's future operations, which no one can surmise in advance.

Nazi Manpower

Evidences of cracking German manpower have appeared lately in Italy and on the Russian front (where, incidentally, the Reds have been marking time the past few weeks only to synchronize their efforts with ours, rather than reorganize their forces and supplies as advertised).

Whether the manpower defect will appear in France and enable us to break them swiftly will not be evident until the real battle develops fully.

All the surprises at the outset were in our favor. The luftwaffe was strangely missing, although it should have been used at the first instant on our ships crossing the channel.

The promised counter air attack on London, or even invasion of Britain, failed to materialize, and there were no immediate reports of vaunted secret weapons or the use of gas.

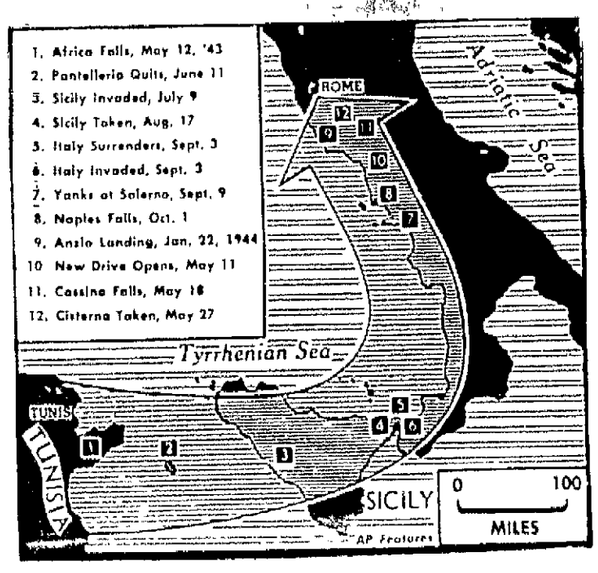
Timetable To Rome



Here is the timetable of the Allied drive on Rome, starting with the conquest of North Africa.

Europe's Oldest Capital

Ancient City Lies 20 Feet Deep.

EXCEPT for Athens, Rome is the oldest city in Europe serving as a capital, declares National Geographic Society, though its physical appearance has changed repeatedly through the 26 centuries of its existence. The famous seven hills surrounded by the flat Campagna were never prominent. They are less so now. Tops have been cut down, valleys built up. The city outgrew its seven ridges, spread over nine or more. Vatican Hill is one of the added heights.

The Rome of today is a city on top of former cities. Much of the splendid old city was torn down by the Visigoths and the Vandals in the fifth century A. D. Accumulated rubbish made new surfaces. The street levels of modern Rome are in many places 20 feet or more above the roadways of ancient Rome. Some areas, like that of the Forum, have been cleared to the original level, but in other sections of the old city fragments of architecture and sculpture are hidden.

Many of Rome's dwellings have been built in the past three-quarters of a century since unification of Italy. The slopes and tops of some of the seven hills were covered with vineyards at that time. Steady growth of the city brought the population to more than a million just before the present war. Refugees are believed to have swelled the present total to more than a million and a half.

Rome has more than a hundred churches of which the most famous are St. John Lateran, seat of the Bishop of Rome (the Pope), and St. Peter's which is in reality not in Rome, but in Vatican City. The latter is a separate city-state governed by the Pope and cut off from Rome by walls. Despite its area of 109 acres, Vatican City includes in addition to the world's largest church, St. Peter's a Pontifical Palace of one thousand rooms; an observatory, a postoffice, railway station, power plant and printing presses for its newspapers and bulletins.

Today and Tomorrow

Unity of Allies Spells Defeat for Hitler as One Vast Battle Starts To Unfold.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE must now wait through weeks, which may stretch out into months, before the grand design of the battle, and of its progress, emerges from the bits and pieces of news, of rumor, and of enemy propaganda that we shall hear.

During the suspense, and the anxiety which must inevitably accompany it, we shall have to measure the good news and the bad by fixing in our minds what Gen. Marshall said on the eve of the assault on the coast of Normandy, that "The final action is now focused on a single battle in which every Allied force will be represented."

These few words tell us more of what we need to know, more of what is in the minds of our own commanders and of the enemy commanders, than we are likely to learn from any other source. After four years of defeat, and then of resistance, and finally of stupendous preparation, the German Army, which conquered so much when it could attack the nations one by one, has been brought to a single battle against them all.

The battle is single in that on the French front, the Russian, the Italian, the Balkan and on others that may yet be opened the German high command must fight not a series of battles, but one interlocking and simultaneous battle.

In such a battle, which has taken years to prepare and achieve, the more strongly the Germans fight on one front, the greater the opportunities they open to the Allied command on the other fronts. For the Germans can no longer concentrate overwhelming force on one front as they did when they overran first Poland and then Norway and then France and then Yugoslavia and then so large a part of Soviet Russia.

Combined Strength

Upon this fact, that no one of the United Nations separately can defeat the German Army but that in combination they can, rests the plan of the campaign and our confidence in its success.

Wars fought by coalitions are notoriously difficult to conduct, and in this one we have learned only too well the heart-breaking difficulties.

Here in the summer of 1944 we are engaged in the desperately hard adventure of landing an army in France. In the early spring of 1940 there was a French army of perhaps 3,000,000 men, and a smaller British, and also a Belgian army, drawn up not on the beaches of Normandy but on the frontiers of Germany. If then, to reinforce France, the Russians and the Americans had been ready or willing to invest even a small fraction of the blood and treasure they are expending since, what a difference it would have made.

This was not to be. It was not to be because of inertia and division among the nations had not yet been put to the test of survival. Only through suffering and extremest danger has the unity of the nations been accomplished. We must remember that, even when we proclaim the epoch-making fact that the coalition has been accomplished, and that at the climax of the war it is far closer and stronger than any one dared to believe it could ever become.

The spectacle which is now unfolding is awe-inspiring. We see the nations which were formed out of Europe moving in to liberate the ancient continent in which their civilization has its origin. In their geography and in their statehood, the British nations, the Soviet Union, and the American republics are not European. But despite all the variations of their separate development, they are the trunks and the branches out of the same root.

Tradition Challenged

They are the heirs of the ancient Mediterranean world where the enduring civilization were evolved. And though to the east this tradition descends through Byzantium and in the west through Rome, it is in the end, beneath the schisms and dissensions of a thousand years, one tradition.

This tradition has been challenged absolutely by the Satanic genius of Hitler, supported by the terrible military efficiency of the Prussian-German state. Nothing less than this, perhaps, no challenge less absolute, no power less formidable, could have compelled the jealous and disunited members of western civilization to summon at the separation of centuries. In this final test, which none could evade, they have surmounted it.

As the years passes, they will tend again to become absorbed in their separate affairs and to go their separate ways. But never again so separately as they did before. The experience is so profound that its effects are irreversible.

We are at one of the great turning points not for much more than 1,000 years have western men fought side by side for the rescue and perpetuation of their civilization, and the memory of this undertaking will illumine the long future and change all men somewhat.

Picnics

By Truman Twill

The time has come to speak once more of picnics. You would think that with hordes of Americans eating field rations and trudging around in all kinds of weather under military discipline, we homebodies could skip picnics for the duration, but no, we must share the hardships of war.

We must load up a lot of stuff in baskets, on our field uniforms, form a car pool, look longingly at the dining room table and the comforts of home and walk out on the whole thing—to slap ants, shoo flies, get grass stains on our pretties and munch concoctions that would make a war veteran turn pale and mutter, "No, I've had enough hardship to last me for a lifetime and demand my right to balanced rations."

There is no mystery about picnics. It is perfectly plain why they continue to happen in the best regulated families. They come from a psychology of eating. Psychologically, eating can be saved from boredom if the location is changed. Picnics are the poor man's version of eating out.

They are organized by women who figure the way to get even for not being taken to some flossy joint to put down a hearty meal is to get the old man out to a cow pasture and evade the responsibility of cooking him and the kids a proper meal. It is perfectly plain what the picnic is. It is better psychology to foist off lemonade and pickups in a pasture than in a dining room.

But the selection of the pasture is the crucial point. If it's a change of location that's needed there is the bedroom, for instance. Not much to be said for eating sandwiches and pickles in bed. If it comes on to rain, the picnicker can roll up in the covers and be comfortable under his own roof.

Garages are recommended as being considerably more comfortable than the shelter sheds in which picnic groups huddle miserably for protection against the sun and rain.

For solitude and a chance to get away from it all, try the attic. Or if the attic is full there is the basement. If it's discomfort that is needed to create the picnic illusion, plenty can be spread on the coal pile. There are many ways to have a picnic than to drive miles in any direction, turn at the filling station on the left, drive another half mile, climb over a fence and there you are. It's a losing battle, but we keep fighting, because when the war is over and 10,000,000 men who have been dreaming of putting their feet under a table and eating in style come home, anyone who mentions a picnic will be garrotted with a link of goose liver sausage hung up in a tree for a horrible example.

Nazi Chiefs Made Confident Advance Claims on Invasion

Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent, who has just returned on the Gripsholm, spent eight months as a Hitler prisoner of war. Following is the picture he brought back of German reaction to allied invasion plans.

By LARRY ALLEN

NEW YORK, June 8—Nazi Germany professed to know the exact moment and place the Allied armies would strike in their invasion of the "fortress of Europe."

So said diminutive, venom tongued Doctor Paul Joseph Goebbels, reichsminister for propaganda and "president" of the much-bombed city of Berlin.

Furthermore, he declared, Deutschland not only was confident of repelling the assault, but now was in a position herself to take the offensive.

He made these statements in a recent speech, radiocast on a nationwide hookup.

Goebbels did not elaborate on the reich's "offensive" plans, but indicated England would bear the brunt of German fury.

Goebbels, who has done most of the talking in Germany this year, asserted there could be no doubt but that the Allies would be beaten back when they assaulted the ring of steel that guards the "fortress of Europe."

Germany's two crack commanders in the west, General Field Marshals Erwin Rommel and Gerd von Runstedt, professed the same opinion, although Rommel inferentially admitted the Allies, if they paid the cost of an estimated half-million casualties, probably would succeed in smashing through the first stretches of the powerfully fortified "Atlantic wall."

Rommel apparently expected the big showdown to come in France about 50 miles from the Atlantic coast.

There the second "Atlantic wall" has been built.

To the commanders along this bastion Rommel has issued this order:

"These positions will be held to the last man. There will be no turning back."

Having passed an ordinance at the last meeting of council to install a five garbage collection service for residents of the city council Tuesday passed an ordinance authorizing the advertisement for equipment to establish the disposal service with the purchase of one motor vehicle constructed with a body to receive garbage, and to purchase one green garbage crusher. It was also necessary to pass a supplemental annual appropriation ordinance to transfer $5,000 from the general fund to the garbage disposal fund.

Because of the war manpower shortage, council passed an ordinance authorizing the employes of the police department to give up their vacation periods and to work during vacation and to receive double pay.

GRATITUDE

D-DAY was the most critical day of our generation. We are deeply indebted to the press, radio and newsreels which, since the beginning of the invasion, have kept us fully informed as to the movements of the allied forces.

This, the greatest achievement in the gathering and dissemination of information ever recorded, makes us realize what our men faced when they landed, and more fully understand the depth of our obligation as individuals and organizations in backing up our armed forces.

Our prayers are with all who are participating in the liberation of Europe, and our sympathy goes out to the families of whose who have made the supreme sacrifice.

Judge Rules Slow Time for Courthouse Clock

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON C. H., O., June 8—Common Pleas Judge H. M. Rankin held in effect today that public building clocks must be operated on slow time, decreed by statute for the state, instead of war time. The decision does not affect municipalities operating on the fast time, he said.

The judge expressed his opinion in overruling a demurrer by Prosecutor John B. Hill to a petition by Jesse Hagler, a farmer, for a writ of mandamus to compel Fayette county commissioners to return the court house clock here to slow, or state, time. Commissioners had advanced the clock to war time, now used by the city.

By overruling the demurrer, Judge Rankin paved the way for issuing the order for commissioners to restore the court house clock to state time and Hill said he did not intend to raise further objections.

AIR-BORNE TROOPS IN GLIDERS ON WAY TO FRANCE. Opening blow in the invasion was dealt by air-borne troops, transported to France in C-47 cargo planes towing gliders. Today, as the invasion beachhead is widened, reinforcements and supplies are being landed by waves of gliders. This picture is the first showing cargo planes towing the gliders filled with air-borne infantry over the channel. Note invasion boat lane in water far below. (Ninth air force photo. U. S. Bayeux Taken by Allies as they rest, regroup and bring up supplies.

Fall of Bayeux Important

Supreme headquarters described the capture of Bayeux, five miles inland from the central Normandy coast and first French city to fall to the invaders, as "very important news" because it opens up avenues for a new advance deeper into France.

"Progress continues despite determined enemy resistance," said this morning's communique. "Fierce armored and infantry fighting has taken place."

A Berlin broadcast indicated south-bound Allied forces already had left Bayeux behind. This report said "hard fighting" still was in progress against an Allied group "which launched a thrust immediately south of Bayeux." Berlin identified the group as British and Canadian infantry and tank units.

German aircraft began to appear in the battle areas in greater numbers. In the past 24 hours, headquarters announced, a total of 102 enemy planes were destroyed—82 in air combat and 20 on the ground.

Allied air forces flew more than 9,000 sorties yesterday, bombing and strafing the enemy from the Normandy beachheads to 100 miles inside France. German reserves moving toward the battle scene were a particular target.

The enemy-controlled Vichy radio declared Marshal Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt had told his German troops to defend the Atlantic wall "to the last man," but nevertheless Berlin broadcasts conceded that in three days the Allies steadily had expanded the invasion bridgehead—which Axis sources said stretched from Valognes, near the tip of the Cherbourg peninsula, to a point north of Caen.

Battle for Caen

A communique last night indicated a battle was in progress for Caen, 16 miles southeast of Bayeux and nine miles from the sea, but this morning's announcement made no further reference to the town.

Returning Allied fliers said Caen was burning. A German tank column counter-attacked in that area late Tuesday, but headquarters said the thrust was repulsed.

Supreme headquarters announced today Allied troops had crossed the Bayeux-Caen highway at several points.

Airborne troops which came down behind the German lines now have made contact with the forces which went ashore from the naval invasion armada, the morning communique said.

The weather definitely is improving, it was announced here, but unloading on the beaches had to be halted at times yesterday because of rough waters. The lost time was almost made up by "superhuman efforts on the part of the landing craft crews," a spokesman said.

It was declared the capture of Bayeux, a key road and rail junction between Caen and Cherbourg, was particularly important because troops advancing inland from there "have no rivers to cross as the rivers run north and south.

The Drome river near the town provides a route that would help sever the peninsula and isolate the great part of Cherbourg—needed by the allies to bring in heavy guns and equipment.

The French in Bayeux hysterically greeted the allied soldiers with shouts of "on to Paris."

Allies Use Airfield

For the third straight night American and British airborne troops dropped in great clouds. Jeeps, motorcycles, and anti-tank guns were flown in to support the airborne attack—which means the allies either had captured an airfield in France or built one.

German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, once again contending with his old and victorious foe, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, threw an increasing number of

"This was the first secret development learned from the Dieppe raid to be announced," a headquarters officer said. "There will be others later."

A continuing stream of German broadcasts included reports of house-to-house fighting in the village of Ste. Mere-Eglise, near the eastern shore of the Cherbourg peninsula; that the Germans had driven British parachute troops from the village of Varville, east of the Orne river, and that British tank forces last night were driving south along both banks of the Seulles river, which strikes between Caen and Bayeux.

Aside from Bayeux and Caen, supreme headquarters gave no place names to locate the invasion battles, but a constant stream of Berlin broadcasts, none of them confirmed, reported allied attacks all the way from the Calais area directly across the Dover strait to the lower western coast of the Brittany peninsula far to the southwest.

It was announced officially here that airborne operations "on a very large scale" throughout Wednesday ferried new contingents of troops, supplies and equipment to invaded Europe.

New Airborne Blows

The Germans said new allied airborne operations were directed against three points on the Brittany peninsula—Lorient, Nantes and St. Brieuc—and against Falaise and Argentan, adjoining rail junctions 30 miles south of Caen.

Supreme headquarters indicated a firm grip had been won on the Normandy coast. A communique said the enemy had been driven back from all the landing beaches and that in some cases the deploying allied forces had linked separate beachheads.

A spokesman for the German high command was quoted in Stockholm by the Swedish telegraph bureau as saying "no one in (Field Marshal) Von Runstedt's headquarters expects the invasion troops will be thrown back into the sea."

The allied forces thrusting inland in the Bayeux region cut the highway to Caen, it was announced officially. Capture of Bayeux itself served the Cherbourg-Caen-Paris railway, contributing to isolation of the enemy in the Cherbourg peninsula to the west.

The German Transocean agency tanks into his checking battles, but the allies also were rolling lines of armor ashore and into the raging fighting back from the coast.

Both French natives and German prisoners revealed Hitler and Rommel recently toured the Atlantic wall in the very area where the allies attacked.

The allied command permitted an announcement that rocket-firing ships were used to pound the landing beaches ahead of troops, asserted the allies appeared to be making a supreme effort to occupy all of Normandy and capture Cherbourg with its valuable harbor.

Headquarters announced "enemy resistance is stiffening as his reserves come into action," but General Eisenhower, too, kept building up his forces with mass landings by sea and air.

A number of German prisoners have been taken and some already have been brought to England.

Although the beachse no longer are under enemy small-arms fire, the invasion armies admittedly still are to meet the bulk of the German forces.

Axis broadcasts estimated Eisenhower already had placed 13 of 80 available divisions in France.

Through the beachhead gaps in the Atlantic Wall streams of allied troops and military supplies poured throughout Wednesday—on their way to battle inland.

Transocean said airborne landings were made yesterday by a hundred gliders near Falaise and Argentan in an area some 40 miles from the sea—a report, which if true, would be the deepest penetration yet.

This same enemy broadcast said parachute troops dropped from 300 planes near Coutances and Lessay, highway towns just inland from the Cherbourg peninsula's west coast. The Germans spoke repeatedly of the "surprising" strength of allied airborne operations.

Other German reports, possibly designed purely ot evoke information, asserted the British sixth parachute division had been "annihilated" and that a beachhead on the east bank of the Orne river north of Caen had been wiped out.

One allied flier said the Germans had flooded three large areas of low-lying land along the Normandy coast.

Along the invaded coast allied naval forces silenced all German coastal batteries that still were in action Wednesday, but supreme headquarters said "it is not yet known whether all have have been finally reduced." German E-boats were driven off in two attacks.

OHIO FLIER KILLED

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., June 8—The Middletown air service command today disclosed that First Lt. G. R. Gibson of Salem, O., was one of five victims of the crash of a four-engined Army plane yesterday in the York county hills. He was the co-pilot of the big ship.

Montgomery And Rommel Again Matching Wits

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The great (and undoubtedly bloody) battle which is boiling up from the Allied invasion of the Cherbourg peninsula shows increasing signs of becoming an exceptional game of wits between three old rivals of the North African desert, Field Marshal Rommel and General Montgomery—two of the fastest thinking and quickest acting tacticians the war has produced.

One is prone to regard all battles as chess games—but the rule doesn't hold. Many are won by overwhelming strength without any finesse, as witness Hitler's early victories when he rode roughshod over a helpless Europe. But the battle of the peninsula will turn in no small degree on the acumen of those great soldiers, Montgomery and Rommel.

German Attacks Start

Already the German local counter-attacks are under way and there's fierce fighting. However, Rommel seems to be moving cautiously. Of course, before he rushes a big army to the peninsula he must be sure that this is one of the major Allied thrusts and not merely a feint to draw his fire while the main attack is made elsewhere. Still, one feels that he's holding his hand pending the moment when he can do the most damage.

That may account in part for the lack of German air power on D-day. The greatly depleted Luftwaffe is being held in reserve for crucial battles.

Rommel undoubtedly would like to get a big Allied force farther inland before his major counter-assault. He's an exponent of tank action, and favors conditions under which he can make quick maneuvers. He may try to force an open battle. That will suit Montgomery—providing the Allies have been able to put ashore sufficient men and equipment. It's a race against time.

Well, we should know more about it in another week or so, if the Allies continue to develop their landing. Apparently they're aiming to cut the whole peninsula off, thereby securing a superb base, made to order with the great port of Cherbourg and a main railroad and highways leading to Paris.

Bayeux Capture Important

The Allied capture of the strategic rail and highway center of Bayeux, five miles inland from the central Normandy coast—a coup which Allied headquarters labels as "very important news"—will do much to expedite the conquest of the whole peninsula, and that means an advance deeper into France.

The situation is getting hotter on the peninsula and it should be emphasized again that bitter times are ahead. Some German reserves and tank units already have been flung into the action. The Luftwaffe also is beginning to show itself a bit.

Many inquiries are coming to my desk as to why Russia hasn't attacked simultaneously with the western Allies. That's an interesting point—but there's no cause for anxiety or doubts. For reasons best known to itself, the Allied high command decided that the Red armies should do exactly what they are doing—sit tight for the moment. Russia is ready and will strike with terrific force at the agreed time. Meanwhile, her massed armies on the battle line are holding the Hitlerites glued to the spot.

Anyway, the thing that matters is that the "second front" on which the Russians have been insisting for three years is finally opened. It has caused an unprecedented war-time celebration in Moscow. And that's something, when we remember that the controversy over the second front was acute in 1942. Nothing could have done more to strengthen relations among the big three than the arrival of D-day.

1,400 Idle as More Join Timken Strike

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., June 8—Nearly 1,400 vital war workers at the Canton Timken Roller Bearing Co. were idle today as company spokesmen said first and second shift grinding department employes joined a walkout that began last Friday.

Finas Reynolds, president of the Timken local of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, declared he informed the regional war labor board Wednesday that its back-to-work order "would not be acceptable to employes involved." He added the board would have to "give the striking employes some assurance that accumulated grievances would be setted in a satisfactory manner."

The dispute arose over day shift operation of a grinding machine and seniority issues, the WLB reported.

Company spokesmen asserted several hundred inspectors would be made idle Friday unless an early settlement was reached.

Captain Knew He Had No. 1 Invasion Spot

A U. S. PARACHUTE CARRIER BASE, June 8—Capt. Frank Lillyman, the first Allied soldier to touch France in the assault from the west, didn't know when the invasion would come but he had been informed days in advance that whenever it came he would draw the No. 1 spot.

The cigar-smoking, 29-year-old parachute troop officer from Syracuse, N. Y., was told of his trail blazing assignment along with Lt. Col. J. L. Crouch of Riverside, Calif., and their hand-picked crews. Crouch was the pilot of the big Douglas C-47 which was the lead plane of the parachute troop carriers.

CARDINGTON PILOT KILLED IN ACTION

Lt. John E. Vaughan Dies in Mission Over France.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, O., June 8 — Lieut. John E. Vaughan, 23, of Cardington, was killed in action on a mission over France, April 20, the war department informed his wife, Mrs. Wanda Vaughan and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Vaughan, Saturday. His father is former common pleas judge of Morrow county.

The war department on May 4 had reported that he was missing in action. The information carried in Saturday's telegram was based on a report made by the German Red Cross through International Red Cross of Switzerland. No additional details were given.

Lieut. Vaughan, co-pilot on a Flying Fortress, failed to return from what his family believe was his fourth mission. Two days earlier on April 18, he piloted his plane back to England after the pilot had been injured.

An AAF bomber station in England through its public relation office gave an account of the April 18 experience of Lieut. Vaughan and his crew, which it described as their third mission. Wounded by a piece of enemy cannon shell, the pilot gave the order to "bail out" before he lapsed into unconsciousness.

As the crew rushed for their parachutes, Lieut. Vaughan spoke over the interphone, "Hold on fellows, we're going to make it." The crew regained its confidence, fought off six Messerschmitt fighter planes, and under skilfull piloting by Lieut. Vaughan made it safely back to England.

Lieut. Vaughan had been in England since the fore part of March.

He began pilot training in May, 1943, and received his commission Nov. 3 at George Field, Ill.

Lieut. Vaughan was a lifelong resident of Cardington, and graduated from high school in 1938. He attended Miami and Ohio State universities, and at the time of his enlistment was employed by the Curtiss Wright plant in Columbus. He was the first graduate of the local high school killed in action in World war II. Thirteen other members of his class of 1939 are in service.

Memorial services will be held at a date to be announced later.

MRS. NETTIE BERRY CLAIMED BY DEATH

Passes Away After Long Illness; Funeral Monday.

Mrs. Nettie Berry, 53, died yesterday at 11:45 p. m. at Jane Case Sanatorium in Delaware after an illness of four years.

She was born March 14, 1891, to Mr. and Mrs. George Sweiger in Champaign county. On Sept. 12, 1911, she married W. J. Berry. They have lived in Marion 25 years, having come here from St. Paris in Champaign county. Mr. Berry now lives at the Kumfort hotel.

Mrs. Berry was a member of Fite Memorial Baptist church.

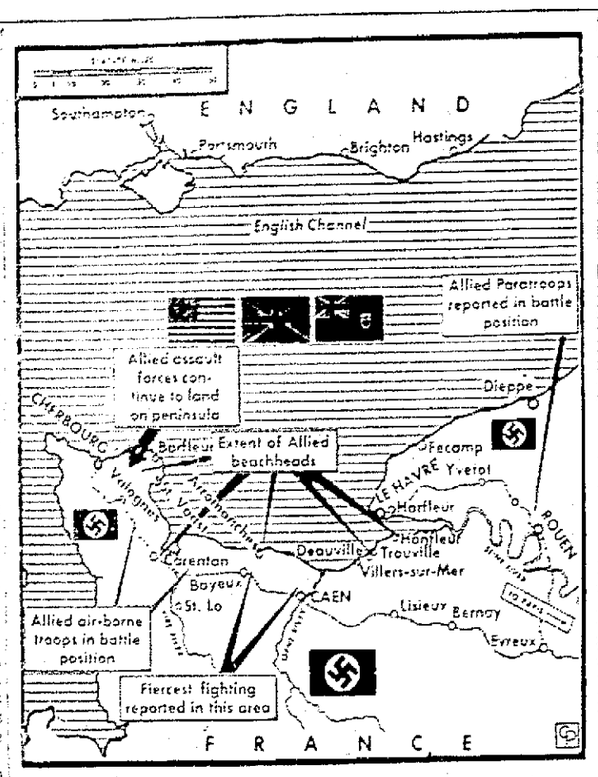
Surviving with the husband are two sons, Kenneth W., with the Navy stationed overseas, Richard A. of Camp Cooke, Cal., two brothers, Ernest Sweiger of Cleveland, and Homer, address unknown, and one grandchild. One son preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at Hughes mortuary on Monday at 10 a. m. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon on Saturday.

FIVE DIE IN CRASH

By The Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 8—The crash of a flaming four-motored Army plane cost the lives of five men yesterday. One of the crew parachuted safely. The surviving crew member and Homer Richereek, a resident of the area, dragged two bodies from the wreckage before they were driven back by the intense heat. Richereek said three other bodies were visible in the debris.



HOW THE INVASION IS GOING. According to all available information, the invasion of Europe is "progressing better than expected." Gains and battle sites, as reported from Allied sources and also from labeled Nazi propaganda sources, are shown on this map. One of the most important points captured is Bayeux, shown in map near Caen, center of the area where hardest fighting has been under way since start of invasion.

Eisenhower Has Full Confidence in Allied Forces

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 8—Gen. Eisenhower declared today his "complete confidence in the ability of the Allied armies, navies and airforces to do all they are asked to do has been completely justified."

"In the early landing operations which are always naval, the two Allied navies—together with elements of navy units of the United Nations—under Admiral Ramsay have excelled, in the high standard of their planning and their execution, any prior venture in which I have seen them engaged," Gen. Eisenhower said.

"The long and brilliant campaign conducted in the past month by the combined air forces, including the commands of Air Chief Marshal Harris, Gen. Spaatz and Air Chief Marshal Leigh Mallory was an essential preliminary to the undertaking of the operation and has proved its effectiveness by the fact that the landing was made as planned. Their good work is continuing.

"Gen. Montgomery is in immediate and direct charge of all the assault ground forces. Under him all the troops are performing magnificently."

EGGS 5 CENTS A CASE!

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 8—A carload of eggs for which the government paid $8.10 a case is sitting on a railroad siding here, war food administration spokesmen said today, awaiting conversion into animal protein feed. Feed mixers paid five cents a case for the eggs. The WFA said in Chicago last night about 70 carloads were being disposed of throughout the midwest because of lack of storage and outlets.

Owners Chide Dogs As They Bark at Thieves

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA—Quaker city dogs are finding people a little dull of comprehension.

When Mrs. Laura Varalli and her sister, Miss Anna De Russo, of Philadelphia, visited neighbors recently, they were annoyed by the barking of several stray dogs. A few minutes later after they'd returned home, they wished they had understood the pooches' message . . . thieves had ransacked the house and stolen $312 in money and jewelry.

The same day James T. Fielder, a druggist, astonished his 15-year-old fox terrier, Skippy, for barking. Fielder investigated when Skippy refused to quit down, and saw two thieves fleeing the store.

ABOUT ANYTHING

In and Around Marion

Infant Tastes

A tiny tot was wistfully looking in a window of a local department store recently admiring the infant window mannikins. Sort of looked like a miniature mother or dad who gaze longingly at some bit of apparel on display.

Street Scene

Not long ago if we had had a camera ready we could have snapped a picture showing a dignified worker in one of the downtown banks walking down the street lapping buttered popcorn from an overflowing sack.

Too Much of a Strain

Everyone present at a recent junior-senior banquet agreed that the youngsters scheduled to talk would have been much better off, gastronomically speaking, if the speeches had been presented before the dinner instead of afterwards. The young orators kept snatching looks at their paper between bites and their lips moved almost constantly, either with the chewing of food or mouthing words of the speech.

Graduation Rain

The rain which poured down about time for the recent Harding High commencement activities to end at the Garfield park pavilion caught many people unawares and we noticed many improvised raincoats. One of the most unexpected was part of a sheet which a well-dressed young man had draped over his suit. Wrapping paper and pillows were also pressed into use. Others gave in to the dampness, removed shoes and stockings, and waded to their automobiles parked nearby.

Showers failed to dampen the spirits of attendants, many of whom were able to congratulate graduates on the spot. The Harding High school a cappella choir also came in for a share of the rain's tricks. After one of their numbers thunderous applause came from the audience, the only catch being that the applause kept up after hands of the audience were still. Rain pounding on the pavilion's roof brought about the freak effect.

Graduation Maneuvers

Some of the senior boys receiving congratulations Sunday afternoon took advantage of the occasion to slip in a kiss or two on the lips of several sweet young things. Some of the girls who had passed by before the idea started contemplated going around again. One graduate found his irresistable appeal didn't work when one young lady, about six years old, flatly refused to kiss him. Even the example set by her small sister couldn't change her mind.

When the Parson Moves

Spring and fall are usually moving time for those restless souls who must have, every so often, a change of environment to breath easier. But there is one group of citizens who know as sure as fate that, come Methodist conference time, there will be "much running hither and thither upon the earth," and it is usually the lot of the minister to do the "running." The close of the Ohio annual conference in Columbus last week sent a number scurrying in search of a moving van and set parish members "on their toes" to greet "the new preacher." The conference is almost always a place of serious business, no more so than when the inevitable wait comes for reading of the appointments by district superintendents with sanction of the bishop. The atmosphere is always somewhat tense, but some indomitable one will invariably start the hymns "A Charge To Keep I Have" and "I Shall Not Be Moved"! One year at the ministers' wives session a quartet presented a number based on an old tune with words which included, "The old packing boxes, the iron-bound boxes, the dust covered boxes the preacher must pack." Does it sound rather amusing? There are always sad moments if there are real friends to leave behind as a moving van pulls away from a parsonage door. Surely the minister feels kinship with the apostle Paul, heeding his admonition to do as he, when he said, "Forgetting the things that are past, I press on toward the mark for the prize of the high calling."

Viewpoint Changes

When the young ladies of today were quite young, they protested vehemently against mother braiding their hair in pigtails and tying them with ribbons. Now these same young ladies arrange their hair in ribbon-tied pigtails and consider themselves right in the groove.

Rabbits Like Gardens

Some Marion residents, it will probably be a victory gardener, is going to have a nice fat rabbit for supper one of these days. Quite a few gardeners are complaining that rabbits have nipped the tops off their plants. One resident counted four bunnies while enroute to work yesterday.

Soldier's Reply

A Marion boy returned from overseas service recently and was greeted with exclamations from family and friends who were surprised that he looked so well and almost unchanged. He took the comments for a time and then cracked back with: "What did you expect me to do, come jumping in on a pogo stick?"

Rural Mechanics

We happened the other night to look in one of the several farm machinery repair shops that have been set up at several points in Marion county, and the scene there was something that would cheer the heart of any practical-minded person. It almost made you want to say, "Why didn't somebody think of this before?"

The school shop, with all its facilities, was humming along at a fairly busy pace, although this particular time of evening was dull compared with rush periods.

Farmers had brought in broken pieces of equipment and were using the shop facilities to repair them themselves. The instructor was on hand to offer suggestions and occasionally take over the tools for particularly difficult jobs.

Considering the importance of food, and how busy most repair shops are in view of the manpower shortage, the shop seemed something like the answer to a farmer's prayers. And statistics show that the shops are being used regularly.

Most of the shops, with government aid, will be open throughout the summer and fall months to keep farm machinery rolling. Most farmers have considerable native ability with tools, and most of them get a certain amount of enjoyment using the up-to-date equipment of the shops. And the equipment makes it possible for them to make repairs they are not individually equipped to handle. For example, it isn't much of a trick to turn a drill press and a high-speed drill loose on a piece of cast iron, but if you had to drill the hole with a hand drill, you might decide to skip the repair job and borrow a neighbor's machinery instead of fixing your own.

If the adult farmers of today can keep the shops busy, the future of these centers, if they are continued after the war, is worth a thought in view of the fact that many farm youths take a farm shop course these days. They learn how to handle power machinery and to do tricks with it that make their dads look on in envy.

Aside from the purely practical aspects of the machinery repair shops, they are in one sense a flashback to an era in which every family was virtually self-sufficient. The ability of a farmer to keep his own machinery in repair and to fix broken parts carries with it a certain satisfaction and self-sufficiency for which there is no substitute. The community shops seem to foster this sort of individual resourcefulness, and one wonder if community centers for other activities might not be introduced with similarly beneficial results.

FORRESTAL PICTURES VAST NAVAL POWER

By The Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 8.—Accumulation of tremendous force for the invasion of Europe "could not have occurred without the control of the Atlantic sea lanes" achieved by the American and British navies over the last two and a half years, Navy Secretary Forrestal declared yesterday.

This control, he told the 104th graduating class of the U. S. Naval academy in a prepared address, "was accomplished through constant and unremitting study of enemy tactics and through the most extraordinary coordination of surface vessels, land-based aircraft and the baby flat-tops."

To illustrate the success attained in sweeping the enemy from the sea lanes, Forrestal disclosed that since Jan. 1, 1942, the American Navy has convoyed 7,499 vessels across the Atlantic with a loss of only 16.

"And in this list of casualties, there is not a single troop transport," he said.

Discussing the new striking power of America's battleships fleet, the secretary asserted that "unlike the Germans, we did not count on any single weapon, such as the submarine."

"The thinking which preceded the construction of the vast fleets which we have at sea today rested on the principle that no one weapon or class of vessel alone can win a war," he said.

The first chamber of commerce was formed at Marseilles in the 16th century.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LT. RALPH CARHART AWAITS ASSIGNMENT

To Command Gun Crew On Merchant Ship.

Lt. (jg) Ralph Eugene Carhart, USNR, of 350 Franklin street, has completed his training and has reported to the U. S. Naval Armed Guard Center in New Orleans, La., for assignment to duty as commander of a Navy gun crew on a merchant ship, according to word from the Eighth Naval district headquarters in New Orleans.

He will be charged with the defense of the vessel in case of enemy attack.

Lt. Carhart practiced law at Marion prior to entering the Navy Dec. 28, 1943. He was graduated from Ohio State university in 1926. He belongs to Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

He is the son of Fred L. Carhart of 367 Mt. Vernon avenue. His wife, Ruth, and their two small daughters reside at their home here. He is a former city soliciter.

LEGAL NOTICE

DEMONSTRATION
A number of individuals in the St. James community viewed the pasture on the Horace Braden farm Tuesday evening, June 6, in two demonstrations arranged by the Morrow county Headwaters Soil Conservation office at Mt. Gilead in charge of H. E. Hecker. The mowing of pasture illustrated the need to keep bluegrass short so it will remain productive and will not shade out any white clover that is present. The trash mulch pasture improvement area was also observed and an excellent demonstration of increased tonnage of pasture as well as a type of vegetation which will continue to grow during the dry period of July and August. Ladino clover in the seeding was particularly outstanding.

BLOOD DONOR TOTAL REACHES 564 MARK

Army Doctor Pleased by Results of 3-Day Visit.

A total of 210 pints of blood was donated by employes of Marion plants and individuals Wednesday when the Red Cross blood donor unit ended its three-day Marion visit. A final check showed that residents of the community had contributed 564 pints of blood during the three days. Marion's quota for the three days was 570 pints. Dr. Arthur Lizzi of the U. S. Army, who headed the unit, and members of the staff were highly pleased with the response and said it showed a fine spirit of cooperation and patriotism on the part of the citizens.

A last minute appeal to the Permanente Metals Corp. at the Scioto Ordnance Plant brought a response of 15 donors when it was found that a large number of rejections had lowered the day's quota of 200. A total of 238 donors reported but colds and other circumstances made it necessary to reject a number of persons.

Donors gave 155 pints of blood on Monday and on D-Day contributions numbered 199 pints.

The next visit of the unit here will be in August.

Infant Son of Marion Couple Taken by Death

William Glen Patrick, infant son of Pvt. and Mrs. Vernon Patrick of 444½ Oak street, died Wednesday morning at University hospital in Columbus after an illness of seven days. He was born July 22, 1943, to Vernon and Avonelle Southward Patrick, the father a native of West Virginia and the mother of Marion. Pvt. Patrick is stationed at Ford Ord, Calif., and arrived home yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Boyd-Uncapher Funeral home. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

KENTON YOUTH DIES

KENTON, June 8—Robert Burchiel, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burchiel of Kenton, died yesterday in Antonio hospital after a Red Cross appeal for blood donors had been answered by a score of volunteers. The youngster became seriously ill shortly after an emergency appendicitis operation Monday.

The word "sheriff" comes from the old English title "shire-reeve," meaning custodian of the peace of a county.

OFFICER ASKS RIGHT TO MAKE STATEMENT

(More about Lt. Col. Miller on Page 18)

By The Associated Press

CORAL GABLES, Fla., June 8—A patient in an Army hospital, Lt. Col. Henry J. F. Miller was reported seeking an opportunity today to speak publicly about his demotion from the rank of major general as punishment, the war department announced, for a cocktail party remark hinting at the date of the European invasion.

Through Col. Dan C. Ogle, commanding officer of the Army air forces regional hospital, Miller declared:

"I am an officer in the Army of the United States and therefore can make no statement of any kind at this time or until such time as the war department authorizes me to issue a statement concerning my case."

Another statement was promised if the war department gave approval.

Col. Ogle said that Miller, a peace-time resident of Miami, was being treated for "serious physical ailments that necessitate hospitalization," and added:

"They are not connected with his service overseas."

Missionary Tells Galion Group of Work in China

Special to The Star

GALION, June 7—Telling about her life as a missionary in China, and of her homeward journey began Feb. 6, and ending May 26 when she arrived in Galion, Lucile Hartman was guest speaker at the quarterly meeting of the Ladies' Adult Bible class at First Reformed church, Tuesday evening.

Miss Hartman made the trip to America with her father, Rev. Ward Hartman, and they came to Galion to reunite with Mrs. Hartman who returned here three years ago and has been librarian in the Senior and Junior High schools since Jan. 15, 1943.

By truck and by bus, Miss Hartman and her father traveled three weeks to get from their home at Yungsui, across China. They arrived at Kunming of Yunnan Province. Next they took an eight-hour hop by plane over the "hump" to Calcutta and then crossed India to Bombay where their trip to Boston was made by ship. They had to spend one month in India waiting for their ship, and then six weeks on the ship, not knowing what course it was taking until they arrived in the Boston harbor.

Miss Hartman and her father were stationed as teachers in Reformed mission schools in Hunan Province, about 100 miles from the battle front. Within the last few days the capital of the province, Changsha, has been ordered to be evacuated.

Oil was struck in Pennsylvania in 1859.

ASKS FORGIVENESS. Joan Ellis, 22-year-old Associated Press teletype operator whose "practice flash" Saturday night that allied invasion of France had begun, has asked America "to forgive me." "Please tell the American people how sorry I am for that false alarm," said the slim, sad-faced English girl, "and ask them to please forgive me. I didn't mean to do it." The invasion actually came two nights later. (International Soundphoto)

CHURCHILL WARNS OF OVER OPTIMISM

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 8—Prime Minister Churchill warned the house of commons today to guard against "over optimism" in the battle of Europe and against "the idea that these things are going to be settled in a rush."

"Although great dangers lie behind," he declared, "enormous exertions lie before us."

The stream of news from invasion reporters temporarily deprived the stocky premier, once a journalist himself, of one of the roles he likes best—that of being able to give a first hand account of major developments—and he said he did not plan to make any statement on the invasion battles during the day "unless something exceptional turns up."

Churchill was asked for an assurance "that the reason he is not going to make a statement in the near future is not that he is going to make a visit to the coast of France."

There was no reply.

Women of Allied Nations To Aid Army of Liberation

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Feature Writer

Communique from the United Nations women's war front:

A picked army of women from 34 United Nations is being trained in London for one of the greatest war jobs women have ever tackled—healing millions of wounded human hearts and bodies which are the cruel aftermath of war. After the invasion has been underway, these trained women will move onto the continent on the heels of the liberating armies and go to work. Their job will be to fight every kind of want, from lack of food and shelter to need of human kindness.

Fourteen hundred already have finished a tough course based on England's war experience in feeding, clothing, nursing, health, emergency relief, civil defense, employment, education and rehabilitation. They have had practical training in emergency kitchens, cleansing stations, clothing depots, hospitals, clinics, clubs, nurseries and canteens. The work they plan to do will be virtually as important to the history of civilization as that of the liberating armies.

Chinese women, traditionally more secluded than their western sisters, are doing tougher war jobs than the women of the western hemisphere. Some are fighting in the army, where several generals accepted them as volunteers. They wear the same clothes and draw the same pay as men—a private gets approximately one American dollar a month. Some of these women, who range from teen-age rich girls to illiterate old peasant women, have seen some hot fighting, but the majority do non-combat work such as nursing and stretcher bearing.

A number of Chinese nurses are assigned to "hospitals on roller-back"—hospitals which can pack up and move from one camouflaged peasant hut to another as fighting progresses. They have to move quickly from one battle scene to another and they must be able to work without sleep for hours on end. These nurses are under the supervision of the Chinese Red Cross Medical Relief Corps.

With Russian Guerrillas

Russian women surgeons have been serving with the guerrillas in the toughest fighting of the Russian campaign. They travel with the troops, setting up their hospitals in swamps or forests. Sometimes they work under very primitive conditions. They operate with pen knives disinfected in the flames of a bonfire, and sew up wounds in the light of home-made candles. Their work has saved thousands of lives.

With French Troops

French women are also doing a dangerous job in caring for the wounded. About 20 of them are attached to French troops at the Italian front, serving as nurses.

About 4,000,000 extra farm workers are needed in 1944.

Normal children require more calories of food for each pound of body weight than normal adults.

Invasion Weapons

Browning Rifle

Associated Press Features

Giving the infantryman the advantage of "several rifles," the Browning Automatic .30 rubber rifle—BAR to the doughboy—has an effective rate of rapid fire of from 120 to 150 rounds per minute, or can shoot a bullet at a time. It is a weapon used by every infantry unit, down to the basic squad, in "cover" the maneuvers of units as they close with the enemy.

An air-cooled, gas-operated, magazine-fed shoulder weapon, the BAR is equipped with a bipod for added stability and accuracy. A 20-pound weight and its ability to use the same ammunition as the M-1 standard rifle and light and heavy machineguns, make this an ideal "base of fire" weapon in the field of action.

ADMITS BRIBE, ASKS TO PAY BACK MONEY

By The Associated Press

LANSING, Mich., June 8 — Frank Murphy, former lieutenant governor of Michigan, pleaded guilty yesterday to a grand jury warrant charging him with conspiracy to corrupt the 1941 state legislature through the taking and paying of bribes.

Appearing before Circuit Judge Leland H. Carr, Murphy (not related to Frank Murphy, associate justice of the U. S. supreme court) admitted he had received bribes totaling $2,500 during his term of office.

Arraigned on the conspiracy warrant, Murphy declared in court "I have taken $2,500. I would like to have your permission to return this money as soon as this case is disposed of. * * * I would rather have that off my mind than to leave an inheritance of that type to my children."

Murphy surrendered yesterday on the grand jury warrant and was bound over to circuit court after waiving examination. Judge Carr accepted the guilty plea and released Murphy on bond of $2,500 for sentencing at a later date.

Strawberry Jam TODAY

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Food Editor

Remember in "Alice in Wonderland" the Queen said, "Jam tomorrow and jam yesterday—but never jam today." Alice objected. "It sometimes happens to jam today," she all feel rather about strawberries are scarce unless you have and then you're few. But if you turn up sometimes you'll decide just a little and then you'll hoard it carefully for a special occasion—perhaps to beautify and give new interest to vanilla ice cream in a parfait when you have the boss to dinner in the middle of next winter.

A quart of strawberries and three and a half pounds of sugar will make about ten glasses of strawberry jam. That will provide elegant desserts for a lot of dinners spaced judiciously through the winter. Even if you are one of those rare people who has available all the strawberries she wants to use, never cook more than three quarts of them at a time.

STRAWBERRY PARFAIT . . . With homemade jam.

Strawberry Jam

4 cups strawberries, 7 cups sugar, ½ bottle fruit pectin.

Wash strawberries, crush lightly or cut into small pieces. Add very little water and cook 8 to 10 minutes. Add sugar and mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over a high flame, and boil one minute. Stir constantly during entire process. Remove from the fire and stir in pectin. Stir and skim for five minutes. Pour into glasses. Cover at once with melted paraffin about an eighth of an inch thick. (Two cups of light corn syrup may be substituted for two cups of the sugar required in this recipe.)

Though I would not recommend making strawberry jelly to anyone who has to buy the berries this year I would like to give herewith a recipe for those who have their own patches. The berries remaining from this recipe may be used to make the strawberry jam described above. Simply omit the crushing, the addition of water and the 8 to 10 minutes cooking. Proceed from that point as instructed.

Strawberry Jelly

5 Quarts whole strawberries, ½ cup sugar, 7½ cups sugar, 1 bottle fruit pectin.

Place whole berries and ½ cup sugar in kettle. Cover and heat gently until juice starts to flow and then bring just to the simmering point. Strain through collander or sieve lined with a double layer of cheesecloth. Measure four cups of juice into a large saucepan and add to it the 7½ cups of sugar. Mix and bring to a boil over a high flame. Add pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to a full, rolling boil and boil a half minute.

Remove jelly from fire, skim and pour quickly into glasses. Cover at once with ¼ inch paraffin. This recipe makes about eleven glasses.

Just to encourage you in the thought that it's worth while to do up a limited amount of strawberry jam so that in your house there can be "jam today" next winter, let me suggest a few other ways in which it can glamorize a meal. A spot of strawberry jam on top of a floating island or a baked custard makes either a company dessert. Thin pancakes, spread lightly with strawberry jam, rolled and sprinkled with powdered sugar are a gourmet dessert. Mix a bit of the jam into a plain bread pudding, and it's not plain any more. Or serve strawberry jam with cream cheese and toasted crackers at the end of a meal—simple and good. You see? In any way your imagination dictates a little strawberry jam goes a long way—yesterday today or tomorrow.

Senator Proposes Investigation of Officer's Demotion

LT. COL. MILLER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 8—Senator Chandler (D-Ky) today proposed a senatorial investigation into the demotion of Maj. Gen. Henry J. F. Miller to his permanent rank of lieutenant colonel and his subsequent dismissal from the European theater to the United States for talking in advance about D-day.

"That is one of the most serious things an officer could do," said Chandler. "Thousands of lives depended on keeping that date secret. I think the military committee should know all of the circumstances."

The Army quoted Miller as having said, at a cocktail party, "on my honor, the invasion will take place before June 15."

The rank to which the officer was reduced is his permanent grade, held since 1936.

Miller, 53, is a graduate of the Command and General Staff School with a 33-year honorable record of Army service. He is a native of Salem, N. J., and lives in Miami, Fla.

A 1914 graduate of West Point, Miller is a cavalry man who transferred to the Air Forces. In England, he was one of the commanding officers of the U. S. Air Force.

Among his earlier commands was Grissard Field, Cincinnati, O. He also was chief of the maintenance command at Patterson Field, O.

A woman guest reported his remark to security police. Gen. Eisenhower, after investigation, ordered Miller reduced and sent home.

KENTON MAN NAMED

A. C. Johnston, president of the Kenton Savings Bank in Kenton has been appointed a district chairman on a state-wide banking committee to work with the federal state and local War Finance Committees for the Fifth War Loan from June 12 to July 8. The appointments were made by Paul M. Elliot of Mansfield president-elect of the Ohio Bankers Association and bankers' War Loan Chairman for Ohio. Mr. Elliot has appointed nine district members to head the special committee, he announced today. They in turn will appoint a banker for each county.

FORMER MARIONITE HURT

Raymond Armbruster of Columbus son of Mr. and Mrs. William Armbruster of 227 Bellevue avenue, was seriously injured in an automobile wreck as he was enroute to Portsmouth on May 31, his parents have been notified. He was removed to a hospital at Circleville where it was found he had received six broken ribs a punctured lung and a deep head injury. He is reported to be slightly improved. Aside from his wife, who was Miss Virginia Sherwood before their marriage, no visitors have been allowed. Mr. Armbruster was a barber at the Neil House in Columbus for six years and for the last two years has been traveling for a soap company, covering territory in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky. Mr. Armbruster is the sixth member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. William Armbuster to be confined in a hospital during the last eight months.

... Scalloped Potatoes, ... Spinach, Green Onion ... Dressing, Young ... and Rhubarb, Straw- ... Cake or Berry Roly ... Tea, Hot or Iced.

Baked Rhubarb

... Rhubarb, 1 slice pineapple, ... cut small, 1 stick preserved ginger, cut small, 4 cloves, 2 c. sugar, ¼ tsp. cinnamon, 1½ tbsp. honey, 1 tbsp. water.

Cut rhubarb in pieces about 1 or 2 inches long; add other ingredients and put in baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes, or until tender. Remove cover for last 15 minutes. Serves 6.

Strawberry Shortcake

¼ c. shortening, ¾ c. sugar, 2 egg yolks, beaten, 1½ c. sifted cake flour, ¼ tsp. salt, 2½ tsp. baking powder, ½ c. milk, 2 egg whites, 1 qt. berries, ½ pt. cream, whipped.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually. Separate eggs, beat yolks until creamy, add to butter and sugar mixture and mix well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt, add flour and milk alternately. Beat whites of eggs stiff and fold into mixture. Pour into 2 well-greased 8-inch layer cake pans and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes. Spread one cake with layer of sweetened crushed berries, cover with other cake and cover whole with more berries. Spread cream over top. Serves 6 to 8.

Berry Roly Poly

2 c. sifted flour, 4 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, 2-3 c. sugar, ¼ c. shortening, ½ c. milk, 1 egg well beaten, 1 qt. berries.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and 1 c. sugar. Cut in shortening, add combined milk and egg, mixing quickly to make a soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured board and roll ½ inch thick in rectangular shape. Prepare berries—strawberries, raspberries, in season—mix with rest of sugar and spread on dough. Roll as for jelly roll and bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until dough in center is done. Slice crosswise and serve as is or with hard sauce. Serves 6.

Pacific Is Big, But Brothers Finally Meet

The Pacific is a pretty big ocean but two Marion brothers found each other out there. Robert Packer, machinist's mate second class, and Donald Packer, seaman second class, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Packer of 528 Decatur street, had a reunion on May 19 in the South Pacific after not having seen each other for a year. Each knew what kind of a ship the other was on. When the two ships pulled into the same port they did a little inquiring. As a result, Donald stayed overnight on Robert's ship and they talked all night about home.

Robert has been in the service for three years, Donald since August. Both have seen a lot of action. A brother, Pvt. Edward Packer, with an ordnance ammunition company, was transferred recently from Africa to Italy. Another brother, George, is home on furlough now after completing his boot training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station. He will return to Great Lakes Monday for his next assignment.

Curtain Goes Up Tonight on Harness Race Meeting

Everything in Readiness for Top Grade Program.

THE stage is set, the actors are well-versed in their parts and the curtain will go up at 8:00 tonight on the 1944 Marion Little Grand Circuit harness race meeting at the half-mile county fairgrounds track.

For several months, extensive preparations have been under way for the meet with Frank M. Foster, secretary of the Marion trotting association doing the general directing. He is bringing some of the country's best drivers and horses here for the meeting and the purses which will be awarded would be lucrative enough to attract the likes of Greyhound and Little Pat.

Tonight's opening card at the fairgrounds will consist of three races, with the $1,000 Marion Star stake in the limelight. The Star stake, a 24 trot, will be the third race on the program. Supplementing this feature event will be two $300 races, both 18 paces which will be run in that order. Declarations for the races were made Wednesday morning. There will be at least six horses in each race since the first five finishers are "in the money" in all events.

Because of the unexpectedly large number of horses entered, the 18 pace has been divided into events for tonight's program. The 12 trot, originally slated for tonight, will be held later in the meeting. The first and second races, both 18 paces, will consist of two heats at one mile and a third heat at the 9-16 distance. The Star stake will include three mile dashes.

Foster estimated yesterday that some dozen horses would start in the opening heat of The Star stake. This event will be the first in a nightly series of stakes with purses of $1,000 or more. The acme in prizes will be attained Saturday night, June 17, when the $5,000 Morral Supply Co. 2:04 bar pace will be run. This will attract many of the nation's top starters and reinsmen.

Hospital Benefit

No matter how many different drivers share in the purses, a sure winner at this year's meeting is the Women's Board of the Marion City hospital, for whose benefit the meet is being conducted. With proceeds from the races, the board will buy new equipment for the hospital. Board members have placed tickets on sale in the downtown area. These may be bought at the Markert and Lewis clothing store on East Center street, Hotel Harding, Hotel Marion or the National City bank. Tickets will be offered at these establishments throughout the 15-night meeting, which will run through Saturday night, June 24. Last year's meet was also a 15-night affair, in comparison with the five and ten night races of former years here.

Indications point to at least a capacity crowd at tonight's opening card. Last year, the top draw was 5,000 which local race officials hope and firmly believe will be exceeded this year. Approximately 3,000 persons can be seated in the county fairgrounds grandstand and there is space for at least 2,000 more on the rail around the track.

It's not yet known whether Clint Hodgins, leading driver in last year's Marion meeting, will be here this season. Clint staged a great finishing spurt with 12 winners in the last week to cop the title of "Number One Driver" of last year's races. Hodgins is from Shelbyville, Ind. Even if Hodgins doesn't appear this year, there will be two other drivers around who finished near the top in wins last year. They are Gabe Cartnell of Hanover and Marion's own Hugh Bell, whose permanent home is on North Main street. Bell has been training in Urbana, however. Cartnell wound up second in wins last year with 17 and Bell was third with 16 after leading the field for most of the meeting.

Special Events

One of the novel features of the meet this year will be the programs set for June 13 and 14. These cards have been arranged in conjunction with the world premier showing of "Home in Indiana" at the Ohio theater June 14. Important scenes in this film were shot at the Marion county fairgrounds last September. The name of the number one event on tap for June 13, eve of the showing of the film, has been appropriately named "Home in Indiana" free for all trot. Volo Song, last year's Hambletonian winner has been nominated to start in this closed stake. On June 14, the highlight attraction will be the "Phantom Filly" closed stake. This was the name of the story from which the film "Home in Indiana" was adapted. The "Phantom Filly" stake will be a 2 year old pace.

UMPIRE'S ACTION UNCALLED FOR

THE uncalled for action of Plate Umpire Shaner in Tuesday night's Middletown-Marion Ohio State league game in ejecting all substitute players on the Marion bench from Lincoln park is convincing proof that umpiring is a profession, a trade, perhaps even an art. It requires skill and judgment and most of all, an even temper and self control under trying circumstances.

Shaner obviously doesn't possess these last two important characteristics which an umpire definitely must have before he can do a good job. Either Shaner's a highly sensitive individual or he likes to exercise the indisputable authority an umpire does have, but seldom should use.

His action in kicking the Marion players en masse out of the park is probably unprecedented in Ohio State league history. Probably it has occurred sometime in the past in organized baseball. But 10 to 1, if such a thing did happen, the umpire in question probably was justified in his action. From all reports, Shaner was not and because of that, should and probably will be severely reprimanded by the league office, if not dismissed.

Jack Norris, who was working the Marion-Middletown series with Shaner, was in Columbus yesterday conferring with League President Frank M. Colley concerning the episode here Tuesday night. Colley said he planned to make a thorough investigation of the matter.

The quality of umpiring has been none too good in the Ohio State league this year as far as making actual decisions during play goes. But, perhaps that can be blamed on the war and the manpower shortage. As long as an ump makes an earnest attempt to do his best and maintains an even temper, the fans don't "kick" so vehemently. But when an ump blows completely sky high as Shaner did then it's time for something to be done by league officials.

Marion officials state that Shaner "had no excuse for his action." Marion players did not at any time direct "obscene" language at him, only occasionally referring to his small size in a jocular mood. This kidding got his goat (pun), as it should not have done, so Shaner cleaned off the Marion bench.

GOLF COURSES IN GOOD SHAPE

NOT for many years have Marion's two golf courses, Country club and the Mar-O-Del public links, been in such good condition. The greens especially at both courses are in championship shape. They're fast and the bumps have been smoothed out. The fairways on both layouts have been rolled and it's easy to get a good lie without even using your clubhead to move the ball under winter golf rules. The rough has been eliminated for all practical purposes at both courses and there are not nearly as many balls being lost as during former seasons. The Country club membership roll this year is expected to reach the 200 mark, which would set a new record. Mar-O-Del too has been enjoying success in securing members. It looks as if "pleasure" golf is in for a big summer although it's doubtful how much tournament play Marion will have. You can look for the annual county tourney to be held along with the championship match play events at the two clubs.

Three Key Men in Little Grand Circuit Picture

FRANK M. FOSTER

JOE McGRAW

STEVE PHILLIPS

Three key men in the Little Grand Circuit harness racing picture are Joe McGraw, Frank Foster and Steve Phillips. All three have important positions in this year's Marion Circuit meeting which opens tonight on the county fairgrounds track and extends until Saturday night, June 24. McGraw will serve as presiding judge, Phillips will be starting judge and Foster is secretary of the Marion trotting association and general manager of the Marion Little Grand Circuit program. McGraw is from Washington, Pa., and has the reputation of being one of the country's most esteemed and best-known judges. He has been head judge for several local harness race meets and has gained for himself locally and nationally the respect and admiration of turf followers. Phillips who is from Erie, Pa., is one of the nation's foremost starters. He formerly operated bowling alleys in Xenia and currently is the manager of lanes in Erie. He has officiated at practically all the Grand Circuit and Little Grand tracks. Wayne Groves of Pinehurst, N. C., will serve as associate judge for the meeting.

Red Barnes, Middletown Skipper, Out of Money Only Once in Minor Loop Managerial Career

This is the third in a series of articles about managers in the Ohio State baseball league.

Manager Emile (Red) Barnes of the Middletown Red Sox has been "out of the money" only once in his managerial career of six seasons, and that was the first year when he started out as pilot with Clarksdale of the Cotton States loop in 1937.

Red was under colors of the Boston Red Sox then, as he is now, and his entry finished sixth in the race.

Next season he was moved to Danville, Va., in the Bi-State league and started a very successful three-year run. He finished fourth the first year and went down to the finals of the play-off before he was bumped out. In 1939 he brought Danville a pennant and proved it was no fluke by wading through the enemy in the Shaughnessy series. He followed with a good fourth-place finish, but was downed in the post-season play.

Goes to Oneonta

Red moved up as manager at Oneonta in the Canadian-American loop for 1941 and celebrated with another pennant and victory in the play-off. Red was very active in that campaign, playing 108 games and batting .371. His Oneonta crew finished fourth in 1942, but won the Shaughnessy title. Barnes remained out of baseball last summer.

The Middletown skipper started his professional career with Birmingham in 1927 and was always a good hitter. He had big league runs with the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators.

At the University of Alabama, Red was an All-American football performer under the regime of Coach Wallace Wade, now mentor at Duke university, who is on leave serving with the armed forces in England.

Barnes made two trips to the Rose Bowl with Wade's famous Crimson Tide of Alabama.

Barnes' managerial record indicates that he doesn't string along with rear-running ball clubs. He usually has his charges up in the race and that should be heartening to Middletown fans.

"800 Club" Tourney Won by R. Snyder

Although slipping to a 687 four-game total in the final session at the Palace Recreation Center this week, R. Snyder copped first place in the eight-week "800 Club" bowling tournament with a 5595 mark for 32 lines. He was awarded $25 for his championship efforts.

D. Greenland finished second in the tourney, 77 pins behind Snyder, with a 5918 total. He received $15. Leo Oberlander wound up with a 5800 total and was the recipient of $12.50. Other prize winners with their winnings and pin total were M. Hinklin $10 for 5835, Al Shull $7.50 for 5801, L. Johnson $5 for 5753, W. Barber $5 for 5744, L. Schuler $5 for 5687 and Steve Hanovich $5 for 5676. Special awards were made to Marion Hinklin who received $10 for the most spares recorded during the eight weeks of the tourney at the Palace lanes, 156. "Hap" Applegett and Steve Hanovich were presented $5 apiece for registering the greatest number of splits in the tournament, nine. Herb Fair and Mark Pinkerman received $5 each in the consolation drawings held after the tournament was completed.

A total of 24 local bowlers competed in the tournament which started over eight weeks ago. Starting with the tenth highest score, following were other totals for the 32 games in the tournament—M. Snyder 5672, E. Klotz, 5671, L. Cookston 5661, J. Lockstead 5652, E. DeBolt 5640, H. Appelgett 5627, H. Fair 5598, D. Redding 5532, F. Cass 5355, T. Chapman 5316, M. Pinkerman 5316, E. Winchell 5196, R. Maag, 5164, Blackburn 4345 and L. Myers 4132.

W. Barber placed high in the final session of the tournament at the Palace establishment with a 774 four game total. M. Hinklin's 756 took second honors and D. Greenland 750 for third place.

Following are the 200-or-better games rolled in the final night of the "800 Club" Hinklin 211 and 210, Johnson 208, Barber 256, R. Snyder 224, Shull 208, Greenland 203, Hanovich 211, Maag 202, Oberlander 218, M. Snyder 213 and Lockstead 212.

Scores in final tourney session follow:

Hinklin 756, Johnson 737, Chapman 662, Barber 774, R. Snyder 687, Shull 685, Cookston 677, Fair 637, Pinkerman 677, Redding 670, Cass 701, Greenland 750, Hanovich 716, Klotz 614, Winchell 665, Maag 671, Oberlander 735, Schuler 648, Applegett 665, M. Snyder 728, Lockstead 696, DeBolt 709.

Williams May Engage Zurita for NBA Crown

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 8—Ike Williams, winner over Sammy Angott by a split 10-round decision last night, will meet Juan Zurita for the NBA lightweight title within the next three months if Connie McCarthy, Williams' manager, has his way.

McCarthy said he plans to visit Abe Greene, president of the NBA and request that the NBA chieftain order Zurita to defend his NBA title within the next 90 days. As Williams is regarded as the logical contender, McCarthy believes that will result in a Zurita-Williams match.

138 Golfers Await War Bond Tourney

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 8—Harold (Jug) McSpaden and Byron Nelson, two golfing gentlemen whose 1944 earnings have replenished the United States treasury to a remarkable extent, were co-favorites in practically anybody's book today as they and 136 others prepared to open the first annual $17,500 war bond invitation tournament.

But you wouldn't have thought so to hear either of them tell it.

"If I can get a 70 today," sighed the rosy-cheeked Nelson, 1939 National Open and 1940 PGA champion, "then I suppose I will have a chance. But I haven't been doing as well as I would like in practice rounds. I've been having trouble on the fairways and my putts haven't been dropping right."

McSpaden, who has won $13,400 in war bonds to Nelson's $11,290 this year, wasn't even happy that his 73 in a sidebar match yesterday was one stroke better than his rival did. "I don't like to play too well right before a big tournament," the Philadelphia country club pro insisted.

The Mississippi river and its tributaries drain 19 states, or about two-fifths the area of the United States.

"TAG TEAM AT ARMORY, TONITE"

Martino Angelo and Irish McGee will try to soften the heads of Rufus Jones and the Black Panther in their tag team match at the Marion Armory tonight. The team of the Panther and Jones have proved very good especially when they use their heads but the combination of Angelo and McGee will likely work out something to take care of that. All four men are rated tops and plenty of action will take place when they tangle.

Steve Nenoff, popular Bulgarian will wrestle the rough Earl Malone of Salt Lake City in the one hour opener at 8:30. The main event will be for two hours and both matches are for the best two out of three falls. Call the Armory after six o'clock for reservations.—Adv.

GIANTS AND CHICAGO WHITE SOX PUT IN BIDS FOR PENNANTS

Mel Ott Clouts Two Home Runs To Bring Season Total to 14.

By JACK HAND

Mel Ott continued to lift the Giants by their bootstraps, and the Chicago White Sox began to cast their shadow across the American League standings today as baseball swung back into normal stride.

Ott clouted two more home runs, lifting his season production to 14, as the Giants pummeled

Marion Cubs Maul Newark's Ohio State Loop Leaders, 16-3

Funk Blasts Homer and Two Doubles To Champion Loo Cause; Volan Hits for Circuit for Bryant's Moundsmen.

NEWARK'S moundsmen resembled anything but the Ohio State league pace-setters they are at Lincoln park last night when Marion's basement-riding Cubs had a high old time in rolling up a 16 to 3 victory before another fine week-day crowd of 500.

Leading the Marion attack was left fielder Lou Funk, who came here via the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league. This is a Cub farm. Funk, who has suddenly become a first class slugger at bat, smashed three hits in four trips last night, including a homer and two doubles. His homer came in the third inning with the sacks empty. It sailed over the scoreboard in left field.

Ed Volan was tops for Newark with the wood, pasting a home and single in three trips. His fo bagger was registered in the six inning, also with no one on.

The Marion team could muster only nine hits off the slants of Big Bob Jenkins, Newark sta hander, but five of these were extra bases—three doubles, triple and a homer. Marion hi ting was responsible for about half the total of 16 tallies six Newark errors and Jenkins' wildness took care of the rest. Marion had its biggest inning in the first and last—getting five in the opening frame on only two hits and three Newark errors and added six in the eighth and final stanza on three hits and four bases on balls issued by Jenkins.

MARION CUBS

In all, Jenkins gave up 12 walks, which probably comes close to being a season record for State league flingers.

Ostrowski Wins

For Marion, a new moundsman, Stanley Ostrowski, right hander from Chicago and a product of the Chicago Cubs' farm system, was the winning chucker. He allowed nine hits but proved effective in the pinches and struck out three batters. He experienced some difficulty in finding the plate as he walked seven batters. Ostrowski, who won't be 17 until August 26, had been with the Marion team for several days but last night was the first time he was sent to the hill by Manager Grover Hartley.

The game was called at the end of eight innings of play by Plate Umpire Jack Norris because of darkness. The game was one of the longest of the current season—running two hours and 25 minutes for only eight innings.

This was Marion's fourteenth victory of the season and leaves the locals six and a half games behind the league leading Newark team. The lead of Clay Bryant's Moundsmen was narrowed to two games by the Marion game defeat. Middletown's Red Sox, second place team, was idle last night, its scheduled game with Zanesville on the Middletown field being postponed. The Zanesville Dodgers went back into fourth place in the loop standings although not in action last night. Springfield, which held down fourth position for a day, was bounced back into the next-to-last spot by a 10 to 9 loss to Lima's third place Red Birds.

Marion's team is idle tonight, tomorrow night and Saturday and returns to diamond activity Sunday afternoon with a double-header against the Springfield Giants. Newark is idle for two days but the other four State league teams square off in contests throughout the week.

Starts Strongly

Marion started off strongly last night by collecting five runs in the first inning. Center Fielder Bill Morneweg opened by drawing a walk. First Baseman Charles Barney also walked. Catcher Joe Bellamy laid down a bunt for an infield hit, filling the bases. Minnis forced Morneweg at home, Third Baseman Bob McDonald to Catcher Cy Koppa. Shortstop Conn muffled Phipps' grounder and Barney and Bellamy scored with Phipps going to second. Lou Funk doubled to left driving in two more runs, Minnis scoring from third and Phipps from second. Funk came in when a bad throw was made to the infield by the Newark left fielder.

The Marion eighth was begun with Barney, Bellamy and Minnis walking. Phipps forced Barney at the plate and then Funk pulled an inside "blooper" pitch down the left field line for two bases, scoring two runs. Bill Broukal fanned and Ed Labanara got an infield single, scoring Phipps and Funk. Ostrowski walked and Bill Morneweg hit what looked to be nothing more than a single to centerfield. However, the ball took a bad bounce and went for a triple. Labanara and Ostrowski scored on the freak three bagger. Barney, up for the second time in the inning walked. Bellamy ended the stanza and the game by grounding out, shortstop to first baseman.

Newark tallied two in the second when Catcher Bellamy dropped the ball in attempting to tag McDonald sliding into home. Koppa also scored when the ball rolled back to the screen covering the Lincoln park grandstand. The other Moundsman run came in the sixth when Volan clouted his homer over the right field fence.

Bob McDonald is the same Bob McDonald who played shortstop and second base for about a month with Marion. He was released Monday because of the inability of the Marion club to meet his salary demands and was thereupon picked by Newark. He made one hit last night, a sizzler back to the box.

Klotz Captures City Headpin Tournament

E. Klotz captured first money in the city me... headpin tournament conducted last month at the Palace Recreation Center. He rapped out a 118 mark, only two pins shy of the perfect 120 game in headpin bowling. L. Williams had 112 for second place.

Tied for third place in the tournament were L. Myers and Steve Hanovich with 111's. Prizes will be awarded the winners from entry fees in the tourney. Approximately 50 Marion bowlers took part in the tourney which was the last of the 1943-44 season on the local kegling front.

Colonels Back in 3rd Despite Two Setbacks

By The Associated Press

Chalk one up for the Louisville Colonels, who profit even when losing a double-header.

They're back in third place in the American Association today, having nudged St. Paul from the spot last night despite 7-5 and 2-1 setbacks by the leading Milwaukee Brewers.

Ahead by five percentage points when the evening's work began, the Saints dropped a pair to Toledo and found themselves training the Colonels by a meager two points.

Indianapolis settled a little deeper in the cellar with a 3-2 defeat at Kansas City and second place Columbus was nosed out, 4-3, at Minneapolis.

The twin Milwaukee victories, giving the Brewers a record of 24 triumphs in 26 home engagements this season, extended the champions' streak to 10 straight wins.

GIANTS

Al Javery and the Boston Braves last night, 6-2, behind the four-hit chucking of Harry Feldman.

Jimmy Dykes' White Sox stretched their win streak to seven by downing Detroit, 3-1, in another night game. The Sox are only a half game behind the third-place Tigers, and three and a half behind the leading St. Louis Browns.

Orval Grove captured his fifth victory at the expense of Hal Newhouser, whose bid for win No. 9 resulted in loss No. 4 when he walked Grove with the bases loaded to force in the tie-breaking run.

Boston sent the New York Yankees reeling back, 8-1, as Tex Hughson grabbed his seventh decision and Boss Joe Cronin led the attack with a double and homer, Hank Borowy suffered his second setback of the campaign.

Rip Sewell ran his victory string to seven by stopping Cincinnati 4-2 on Vince DiMaggio's single in the eighth, which drove home Johnny Barrett and Jim Russell.

The Phillies came from behind twice to top Brooklyn 6-5 when Jimmy Wasdell singled home Tony Lupien in the ninth after Ray Hamrick had scored the tying run on Rube Melton's wild pitch.

St. Louis and Chicago in the National and Washington, Philadelphia, Cleveland and St. Louis in the American were not scheduled.

AUXILIARY BISHOP TO VISIT LARUE CHURCH

To Confer Sacrament of Confirmation on Large Class.

Rt. Rev. George J. Rehring, auxiliary bishop of the Cincinnati diocese, will confer the sacrament of confirmation on a class Saturday evening in St. Joseph's Catholic church at LaRue. The exercises will be at 8 o'clock and will be open to the public.

The class, which is one of the largest in the history of the church, also is the first to be confirmed for a number of years. Rev. William J. Meyer is pastor of the church.

Assisting in the exercises will be a number of visiting priests. Rev. Meyer will be host to Bishop Rehring and the visiting clergy.

Tuesday Picnic Set by Republican Women

An early summer activity of the Marion County Republican Women's club will be a basket picnic arranged for next Tuesday at Garfield park. A basket supper has been arranged for 6 o'clock, and families of the members and friends of the organization are being invited. It is expected that Cong. Frederick C. Smith and Mrs. Smith will be present.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE LIFTS LID TONIGHT

League softball play is resumed tonight with three games in the Commercial loop, which will find Sandwich Bar, manager by Ed Cheney, playing DeMolay at Garfield park, Co. M and Isaly Dairy meeting at Lincoln park and Waldo and Marion Metal Products playing at McKinley park.

The 1944 softball season was opened Tuesday night by the six Industrial league teams. The Commercial and Industrial circuits are generally recognized as the city's two strongest with the Industrial league usually getting a slight edge.

Heading the list of Commercial league teams is Sandwich Bar which is composed of practically the same players who under the banner of Coca-Cola last season won the Commercial League championship. However, last year the Commercial league was strictly a two-team affair for Coca-Cola and the Waldo Dodgers were the only teams entered. Two games were played in the league with the Cokemen winning both

TOOK CITIZEN'S OATH 'WITH RESERVATIONS'

Admission Made by Witness in Sedition Trial.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 8—Peter Gissibl, a prosecution witness in the mass sedition conspiracy trial, acknowledged under cross-examination yesterday that he took the oath of allegiance to this country with "certain mental reservations."

Defense attorneys took over questioning the former leader of the German-American Bund in Chicago after eight days of direct testimony.

Under questioning by Maximilian St. George, attorney for Joseph E. McWilliams, one of 29 defendants on trial, Gissibl testified he foreswore allegiance to the the German government (Weimar republic) without reservation because "I didn't care for it," but that he had "certain mental reservations."

"Did you say that when you took the oath you had a mental reservation?" St. George pursued.

"Yes, I did," Gissibl replied.

He added the reservation was that "I would never fight Germany" because he "loved the mother country."

Gissibl, who came to this country from Germany in 1923, became a naturalized citizen in 1929, although he said he continued to pay dues as a member of the Nazi party until 1937.

Gissibl testified he helped his brother Fritz Gissibl organize the Teutonia society, a forerunner of the Bund, shortly after coming to America, adding that "the real purpose was to further the Nazi cause in this country."

Gissibl said two successor organizations, the Friends of Hitler movement and the Friends of the New Germany had the same objective and that the aim of the Bund was the same "to a certain extent."

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"TELL YOUR father," Hugh went on, "that I am sending him orally by you the complete information concerning the thing which we have. But for one part I am sending him two sets of symbols. The one I shall call 'A' is the correct one, the one dubbed 'B' is changed just enough so that if they did manage to get the rest of the set, the whole thing will be useless."

I wrote the words down as he dictated them, but I wished I could put one hand up to see if my head were still fastened firmly to my neck. For again I had the sensation that it was floating above me in space, and that it might get out of the room if I were unable to stop it.

Brilliant Mind Needed

"I don't know where he can get anybody to do the work," he said. "It will need a brilliant mathematical mind."

I almost interrupted him with the comment that one of the best mathematical minds in the country—that of Jack Bickett—was still in New York. But I caught the words back with the reflection that I was only a "messenger girl" in this phase of the great adventure—for such I guessed it to be—and that of my father wished Jack to help him in this thing, whatever it was, he knew very well where to put his hands upon my "brother-cousin."

I lost myself in speculation, as Hugh palpably let his thoughts consider the problem of my father's obtaining a "brilliant mathematical mind," the owner of which—and I knew there was the hurdle—would fit my father's other specifications for being trusted with a vital secret.

How were Jack Bickett, the orphaned cousin "four or five times removed" who had been brought up as my brother, and his devoted wife, Katharine, standing the strain of the newly imposed separation brought on by the exigencies of the war?

Rejoiced Over Reconciliation

I had rejoiced with them in their reconciliation after their long estrangement, brought on by influences which neither of them could have foreseen or controlled. And I had exulted with Katharine when Jack had completed the experiment which so nearly had cost him his life, and had been signally honored by the government when he had turned it over to them.

They had had a perfect life until the call of war grew too strong for their patriotic hearts, and Jack was now key man in a small organization engaged upon highly important, secret, and dangerous experiments for the army.

Of course Katharine's role was ready for her. Though but a slip of a girl she had won distinction by her overseas nursing work in World War I. As soon as it was known she wished to get back into harness, she was given a most responsible position at the head of an organization giving intensive training to nurses scheduled for overseas work.

Home Broken Up

She and Jack bravely had broken up their home, doubly precious because of their years of separation, and she had gone to another city. Only one thing mitigated their sorrow at being separated. Neither had been sent overseas, and at rare intervals it was possible for them to see each other.

I thought sometimes that I missed Katharine as much as Jack did. During the years of their estrangement, she had been a part of our home, and had made it possible, by her care of our children, for me to write the play which had brought me success in the theatrical world.

My grateful thoughts of Katharine ended abruptly as Hugh, back from his own mental flight into conjecture, began speaking again.

"These sets of symbols which I shall give you," he said, "are numbered from one to fourteen. It is the fifth one for which I will give two sets, the 'A' correct, and the 'B' incorrect.

"But in all of the sets," he went on, "I must warn you that the single misplacement of a letter, or a figure, or a sign, would throw everything out, and delay us immeasurably, if it did not wreck our whole problem.

I drew in my breath sharply. My memory had often put to many tests, but never had it more dependent upon it before. Would it stand the strain?

But that rush of questioning, I well knew, could lead only to disaster. If I doubted my own powers, they surely would fail me. I had felt that before, but never so strongly as at this moment, when Hugh was looking at me with confidence, in which, however, I was sure I detected a touch of uneasiness.

"I am sure," I said, looking steadily at him, "that there will not be a single misplacement."

MARION JOB TOTAL LISTED FOR MONTH

9,949 Employed in Industry During May.

Figures on industrial employment and other business statistics for Marion during May are listed in the monthly bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce to its members.

The report places Marion's industrial employment total at 9,949 for May, an increase over the 9,529 figure for the preceding month but a decrease as compared with the 11,000 total a year ago when construction projects swelled the total.

Postal receipts for May were listed at $24,579.72, an increase from the preceding month's $19,320.33.

Other figures, with those for the preceding month listed in parentheses, follow:

New car sales, none (2); new truck sales, 1 (1); used car sales, 82 (69).

Gas meters, 9,700 (9,683).

Electric meters, 10,202 (10,258).

Relief cases, 99 (71).

The bulletin announces plans for a meeting of the safety and personnel managers of the city on June 13 at Hotel Harding to hear Major Chris Leggio, chief of industrial hygiene of the state department of health, speak on industrial health and safety practices and the employment of minors.

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Subject of Rest

Rest in bed has always been for me the great cure-all. It is also one of the most neglected procedures in the whole field of treatment. Many a man is rushing around his business affairs working himself into a lather of nervousness and worry, taking something at night to make him sleep and something before meals to help his digestion and taking time off to go to the gymnasium or to a masseur when if he would just go to bed and do nothing for two weeks his frayed nerves would begin to calm down and feel normal. A week or so ago I quoted the remark made to me once—"I verily believe that if everyone spent all his life in bed no one would ever die."

Well, now comes my friend, Dr. William Dock, of Cornell Medical School, and gets his picture in a magazine because he says that—"Bed rest kills more patients than anaesthesia and all the drugs in the pharmacopoeia added together." His objections come down to the items that, prolonged bed rest robs the bones of chalk and creates a negative calcium balance, that it breaks down morale by the use of bedpans and the feeling of helplessness, and impedes blood flow and thus leads to the formation of blood clots which wander over the body and light in the lungs and brain and other places and thus cause those more deaths than anaesthesia. The anaesthetists claim (by the way, Bill tells that they give 1400 anaesthetics without a death. He went on to say, "It is the Mayo Clinic and the New York State Medical Journal that stirred up a storm of protest just a few years ago when they tried to get rid of the bedpan and put the patient on the toilet seat as soon as he can brace himself.

I agree that a toilet is just as good in most instances as a bed. Nowadays, I believe, it is the idea of surgeons to get their patients out of bed to a chair on the fourth post-operative day. This is quite a change from the old idea.

I certainly agree about the bedpan breaking down morale. If there is a safe chance for the patient to go to the bathroom or a commode let him do so. The bedpan has remained in its same primitive, horribly awkward state since the days of the cave man. If one of these medical researchers who yearns to discover something, wants to do a real service let them invent a better bedpan and all the world will make a path to his hospital.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. W. L.: — Could you say whether it is good for people to be continuously eating pork?

Answer: It is a matter of taste, not science. Pork is nutritionally about the same as any other meat.
